

Rockefeller Won't Appear With Nixon In TV Discussion

Rejects Vice President's Offer on Airing Their Views

BY JOE F. KANE
 Washington — Vice President Richard M. Nixon says he has discussed key issues in more detail than Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, who had prodded him to make his views known before the nominating convention.

In reply, Nixon suggested that the two "have a discussion in depth" before television cameras.

The New York governor promptly rejected the proposal. He said Nixon "does not need me to interrogate him on television."

Man Crushed By Falling Load

Telephone Poles Roll Off Flatcar At Potter Siding

Potter — A Soo Line Railroad company employe sustained fatal injuries and a fellow workman suffered a broken back Thursday afternoon when a load of telegraph poles tumbled from a flatcar during unloading operations here.

Dead is George Callies, 63, Bruce, Wis. He died of multiple rib fractures and crushing chest injuries shortly after his 2:45 p.m. admission to Calumet Memorial hospital, Chilton, according to the attending physician.

Callies' helper, Ernest R. Bokoff, 26, Goodman, Wis., is in fair condition with a fractured vertebra.

Cascading Poles

The men, members of the railroad's bridge and builder crew, were unloading the poles at the Potter siding with Callies working from the top of the load. A brace pole apparently slipped or broke, according to a Soo Line spokesman, sending the poles cascading from the car. Callies was thrown to the ground helpless to escape the deadly shower.

Brillon's fire department rescue unit and a Brillion ambulance collaborated to rush the men to the hospital.

The Pfeffer Funeral home, Chilton, said Callies' body will be taken to the Mirr Funeral home, Bruce, where funeral arrangements are being made.

Expense Accounts Screening Proposed

Washington — Rep. Omar Burleson (D-Texas) today proposed that the general accounting office — fiscal watchdog for congress — screen expense accounts filed by members of the house.

Burleson said he favors both a GAO look at members' travel bills before money is paid out and publication of expenses claimed by legislators while on congressional business out of Washington.

GAO auditors already have undertaken a sampling of the accounts turned in by house members and paid during the two fiscal years that ended last June 30.

Burleson is chairman of the house administration committee through which expense accounts pass. They go then to the disbursing office where members collect reimbursement for their travel costs.

Group Adds to Funds to Speed Spy Satellites

Washington — The senate appropriations committee voted today to speed development of a spy-in-the-sky military satellite and provide additional modern weapons for the army's combat troops.

The actions came at a closed door session of the committee as it tackled another $218,800,000 on the big annual defense money bill.

Sen. Dennis Chavez (D-NM) said this pushed the total of the biggest annual money bill to $40,384,897,000.

This is over a billion dollars above President Eisenhower's original budget request and about the same as the amount previously approved by the house.

Community in Terror

City Fears Deluge

BY THOMAS J. STONE
 Santiago, Chile — While the rest of southern Chile faced up to the heavy task of reconstruction from the recent earthquakes, the almost womanless city of Valdivia lived in terror today. They feared dams holding back swollen Lake Rinihue might break any hour and engulf a large section of the city.

For the last four days thousands of persons have left by ship, helicopter, train, truck and on foot. Most of the evacuees were women and children. The interior ministry estimated 25,000 persons had pulled out of the stricken city, which formerly had a population of 100,000.

The earthquakes which had made a shambles of Valdivia in late May blocked normal outlets of the lake. Three landslides crashed into the valley below the lake and blocked the San Pedro river, the normal outlet, May 22.

For the first few days after the quakes there was thought to be no danger from the dams breaking. However the lake began to rise alarmingly later. It is now estimated that if the dams give way a giant crest of water would strike the city in four hours.

Lake Rinihue is about a mile wide and 12 miles long. In places it is hundreds of feet deep.

Loudspeaker trucks were reported roving the streets advising people to hurry and get out.

On the overall scene, Chile's ambassador to Washington, Walter Muller, said yesterday the country will attempt to rebuild its disaster-struck economy without imperiling the gains it has made in battling inflation. He estimated it would take between 400 and 500 million dollars to get the damaged areas back on their feet.

Senate Turns Down Higher Price Props

Retains Supports For Wheat but Reduces Acreage

BY EDWIN B. HAAKINSON

Washington — Rejecting higher price supports, the senate has voted to retain present levels for wheat for three more years while cutting acreage 20 per cent.

To help offset the cut, the bill passed Thursday would pay farmers from government surplus stocks half the amount of wheat produced as an average on the unused land.

The bill faces an uncertain fate in the House, which has been working toward a different measure including higher price supports. Various senators also criticized it.

Humphrey Raps Bill

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn), one of numerous wheat area senators who fought a losing battle, called it "a bad bill" that is "much worse than the present law and will solve no problems."

Senate passage by a 44-38 vote came after hours of bitter debate and a series of roll calls.

Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis) voted with the minority. Sen. Alexander Wiley (R-Wis) was not listed as voting.

Even supporters of the toned-down senate bill were uncertain whether President Eisenhower would sign it.

Provisions of Bill

The bill would retain for the next three wheat crops (1961-63) present government price support of 75 per cent of parity, now about $1.79 a bushel, if commercial wheat area farmers reduce present plantings 20 per cent. This would amount to 11 million acres of the present minimum wheat allotment of 55 million acres.

Before this plan could operate, the bill would require the next three wheat crops (1961-63) present government price support of 75 per cent of parity, now about $1.79 a bushel, if commercial wheat area farmers reduce present plantings 20 per cent. This would amount to 11 million acres of the present minimum wheat allotment of 55 million acres.

Demonstration by Leftists Won't Change Ike's Plans For State Visit to Tokyo

BY JOHN RODERICK

Tokyo — Five thousand screaming leftist demonstrators, fighting against an Eisenhower visit to Japan, besieged the car of Press Sec. James C. Hagerty for more than an hour today, slashing the tires and cracking windows.

Finally, a helicopter was used to rescue Hagerty, the U. S. ambassador to Japan, Douglas MacArthur III and the White House appointments secretary, Thomas E. Stephens. None of them was injured.

Hagerty and Stephens had just arrived to scout Eisenhower's trip, and started MacArthur into Tokyo from the International airport, along the route Eisenhower is scheduled to follow nine days hence. That visit is still on, Hagerty announced, despite today's demonstration—and the White House in Washington added confirmation that the plans still hold.

Tokyo police said they had been caught by surprise today, though the demonstration against Hagerty had been announced in advance. "It was a big blunder for us," a police spokesman said. The Japanese government apologized.

Describe Ordeal

Hagerty described his ordeal this way: "We were surrounded by the crowd. They slashed the tires, threw stones, broke two of the windows and tried to overturn the vehicle. Some were climbing on the roof and singing the 'Internationale.' "We must have been there an hour (it was actually an hour and 20 minutes). Then we saw it was obvious that the police could not get us through. They then asked us if we wanted them to clear a way so we could get to a helicopter. It was quite obvious we were not going to make any headway whatsoever. The three of us then agreed to leave and go out by helicopter."

Hagerty added: "Only when it was obvious we were not going to be permitted to get out by helicopter."

Hails British, U. S. Friendship

Prince Philip Speaks At Dinner In His Honor in New York

New York — Prince Philip, in New York to open the $200 million British exhibition at the Coliseum today, says the people of both nations have a never-ending job to do in preserving friendly Anglo-American relations. "This business is like a garden," said Prince Philip, duke of Edinburgh and husband of Queen Elizabeth. "Leave it to itself and weeds and confusion take over. We can only have the right understanding if we make a conscious and continuing effort to get it."

1,400 at Dinner

The prince commended the present good relations between the United States and Great Britain in speaking at a dinner sponsored jointly Thursday night by the Pilgrims and the English-Speaking Union of the United States. The Waldorf - Astoria hotel dinner was attended by 1,400 members and guests of the two organizations.

Prince Philip said he believes the British exhibition—claimed to be the largest single foreign-sponsored exhibit ever brought to this country—will enhance the friendly relations between his country and the U. S.

Ceilings Put on Amount of U. S. Aid for Highways

Washington — Sec. of Commerce Frederick H. Mueller today announced ceilings on the amount of federal aid the states may use for roadbuilding in the coming year.

Mueller said the curbs were being imposed for the second straight year in order to keep the road programs on a pay-as-you-build basis.

During the 1961 fiscal year which begins July 1, Mueller said, the states will be permitted to commit themselves to spend $2,873,613,000. This is about $173 million more than was made available during the current fiscal year.

Wisconsin can use up to $55,871,000 in federal aid money in the 1961 fiscal year which starts July 1. Of the total amount made available, $37,024,000 can be used for interstate superhighways and $18,847,000 for primary, secondary and urban roads called the ABC program.

Will Showers Hatch Big Mosquito Crop?

Wisconsin — Showers expected late today or this evening. Some shower activity can be expected from partly cloudy skies Saturday. Outlook for Sunday: Fair to partly cloudy and mild.

First Revision Effort

State Commission Begins Study Of Constitution Face-Lifting

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
 Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Madison — A commission of leading lawyers and scholars started deliberating Thursday on whether the 112-year-old state constitution should be traded in for a new model.

Named by Gov. Gaylord Nelson, the commission was told by Fairchild the governor at its first meeting that he has no preconception about its work but that the number of amendments to the constitution that have been approved and the larger number being proposed suggest strongly that a thoroughgoing constitutional revision job is in order.

The governor noted that Wisconsin has never held a constitutional convention since the 1848 fundamental laws of the state were written.

Study Procedure

The commission, headed by Justice Thomas E. Fairchild of the state supreme court, spent its first session in a general discussion of procedure, whether to urge wholesale revision, or piecemeal changes, without coming to a conclusion. Sub-committees were named for the various constitutional articles that will be studied and another meeting will be held in September.

Most of the members agreed that some editing of the old constitution would be wise.

Truman Officials May be Released

St. Louis — A federal judge has ruled that T. Lamar Caudle and Matthew J. Connelly, Truman administration officials convicted of tax conspiracy, may be released from prison at the discretion of the U. S. board of parole.

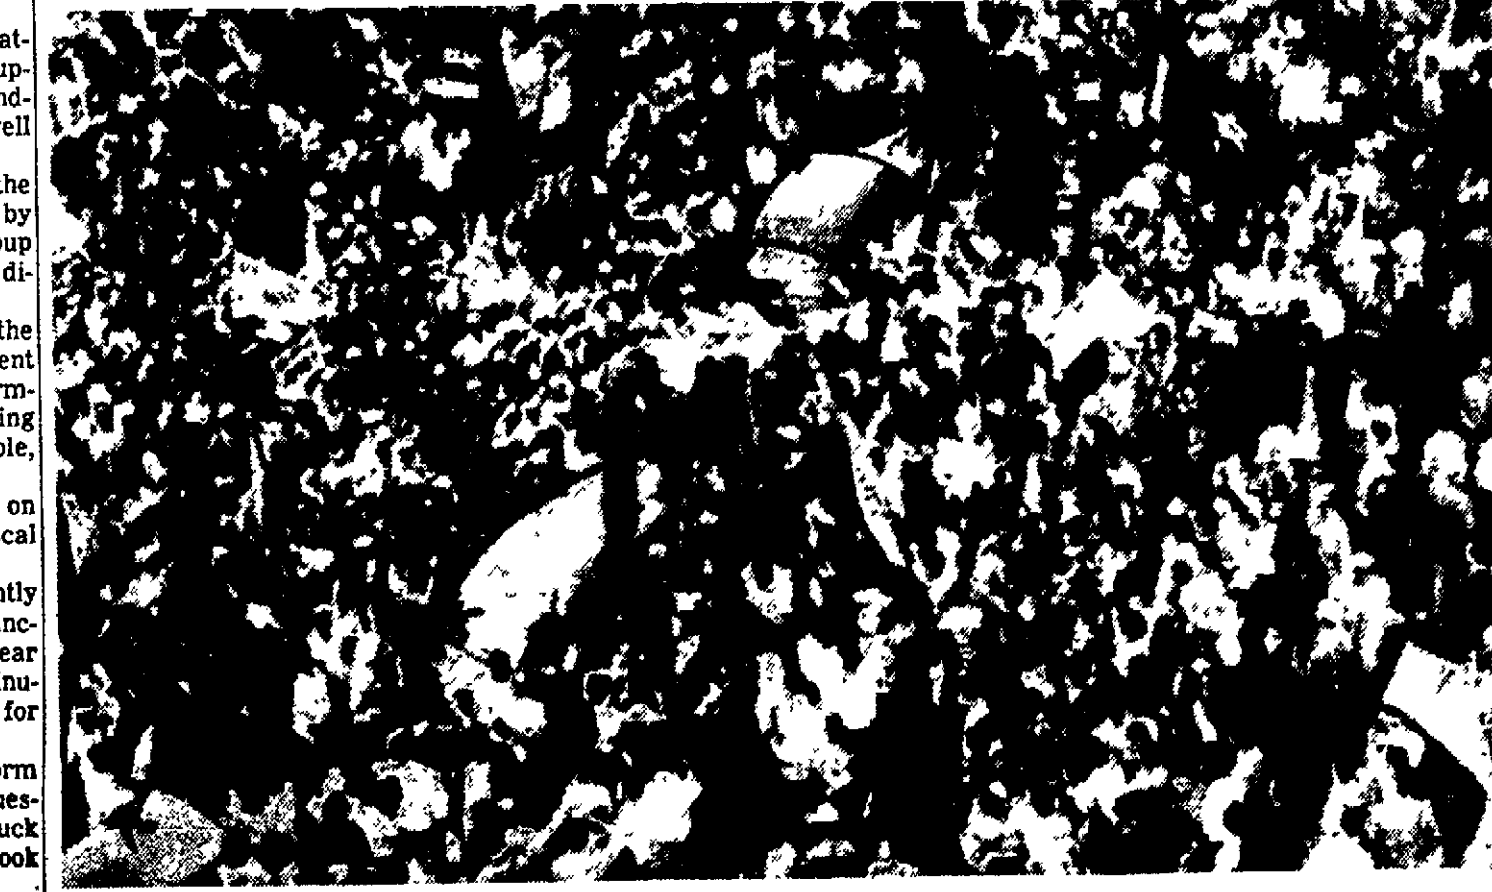

Judge Gunnar Nordbye's authorization cleared the way for possible release of the two before they complete one-third of their 2-year sentences.

Connelly was president Harry T. Truman's appointments secretary. Caudle was head of the justice department's tax division. They entered prison May 4 after a long series of appeals failed.

18,000 Homeless in Wake of Typhoon

Hong-Kong — At least 18,000 Chinese were homeless today in the aftermath of Typhoon Mary, which smashed into this British crown colony with winds of up to 118 miles per hour.

A government spokesman said 30 bodies had been recovered, at least 34 other Chinese were missing and 78 persons so far were reported injured in Hong Kong's worst tropical storm since 1937.

This General View, Made from a helicopter, shows James Hagerty's car surrounded by leftist demonstrators at Haneda airport in Tokyo after Hagerty's arrival today. U. S. Ambassador Douglas MacArthur, also in the lead car, had to fly to the airport to greet Hagerty.

Argentina Wants Eichmann Returned

Diplomats Trying to Work Out Compromise to Avert Showdown In U.N. Over Ex-Nazi Officer

United Nations, N. Y. — Organ of the United Nations — rule whether Eichmann was kidnaped or, as Israel claims, agreed to go with his Jewish captors and stand trial.

There was no indication from Jerusalem that Israel would be willing to go to the world court, however.

Move Slowly

The international tribunal usually moves slowly, sometimes taking years for a decision in major cases. With feeling running high in Israel against the ex-Nazi, the Israeli government is going ahead with plans for a show-case trial within a year to bring out details of the Nazi extermination of six million European Jews.

Eichmann will be tried in Israel under the 1950 "Nazi and Nazi Collaborators" act, and will face the death penalty.

In Tel Aviv, meanwhile, extra guards were stationed at the Argentine embassy and the homes of Argentine diplomats after they reported receiving bomb threats.

Argentine Ambassador Rodolfo Garcia Arias has been called home for consultation and is leaving Tel Aviv for Buenos Aires on Sunday.

Set Deadline

The Argentine note to Israel set this week as the deadline for the return of Eichmann before lodging a protest with the United Nations. But an Israeli reply to the note appeared unlikely before next week, Ben-Gurion's cabinet meets in a regular session Sunday, and informed sources in Jerusalem said no emergency meeting has been called before then.

The Argentine delegation to the U.N. says it has received instructions yet, but Ambassador Mario Amadeo is expected to fly into New York Sunday from South America.

Foreign ministry sources in Buenos Aires said Argentina could count on the support of most Latin American countries, the African and Asian nations and many European countries if the Eichmann issue comes before the U.N.

Peace Formula Ends Blackout On Broadway

Most Shows Will Be Reopened by Monday Night

New York — Actors and producers ratified a 4-year contract Thursday night to end the week-long Broadway stage blackout.

Plans were made to reopen 19 of the 22 shows by Monday night.

The League of New York theaters, representing the producers, unanimously agreed to accept a peace formula hammered out earlier under the direction of city Labor commissioner Harold A. Felix. Members of Actors Equity association by secret ballot, voted 773-54 for acceptance.

David Merrick, one of the producers, said he did not think the settlement would force a raise in ticket prices. "With careful management," Merrick said, "we will be able to hold the price line."

Pension Fund

Under the new contract, Broadway actors get their first pension fund, the crux of the dispute which shuttered Shubert alley. The pension terms extend for six years, two years beyond the life of the pact.

Other terms are: Minimum pay for actors on the road will be $145 a week for the next two years and $150 for the following two years. The present minimum is $135.

Per diem pay out of town goes to $10 or $12.50 depending on whether rehearsal payments are made. The present minimum is $7.50.

Rehearsal pay will be $82.50 a week for the first two years of the contract, $92.50 in 1962, and $97.50 starting in 1963. The minimum now is $75.

Minimum New York pay for actors goes from $103.50 to $117.50 a week.

Burton Zorn, the league's lawyer, described the settlement as a fair and reasonable compromise "with no victory on either side."

Halls Settlement

Helen Hayes, a member of the Equity Council, hailed the settlement as "wonderful." One of the most significant aspects of the stage stoppage, she said, was that "the people

Warehouseman Steals $59,000 in Goods

Thefts Became Challenge for Bachelor, Police Say Most Items Were Given Away

Vernon, Calif. — At first, said police, warehouseman Joseph Gruber helped himself to his employer's wares "to help friends."

Then he took home a truckload of toys, and gave them away to children in his neighborhood, detectives said.

"Soon stealing became a challenge with him," said officers. They said Gruber, a 27-year-old bachelor, used a company truck to take items home from the discount house where he worked. Among the items, said police, were these:

Television sets, radios, tape recorders, power tools, shotguns, rifles, silverware, household appliances, cameras, typewriters, luggage, air conditioners, a dinette set, a complete hi-fi set, a mah-jongg set and a portable cement mixer.

Plans High Point

"When we arrested him Wednesday," said Det. Sgt. Jim Morrison, "he told us he was planning the high point of his career—walking out with a wall refrigerator."

"He would probably have given that away, too, because he has a brand-new refrigerator in his kitchen—one he paid for."

Morrison said the $350-a-month warehouseman stole goods totalling a value of $59,000. He gave most of it away. Police undercover men traced the thefts to Gruber, who, they said, admitted the Robin Hood escapade.

He was booked on a suspicion of grand theft. Officers spent much of Thursday recovering 100 from among Gruber's neighbors. They didn't try to recover the toys, however.

"We just didn't have the heart to take those back," said Morrison.

2 Deaths Raise State Traffic Toll to 306

Milwaukee — A 2-car collision in Oconto county and the death of a 2-year-old Janesville boy raised Wisconsin's highway toll to 306 today. One year ago there had been 282 fatalities.

Mrs. Ina Kleinke, 60, of Marinette, was killed Thursday night when a car driven by her husband, Kermit, and another driven by Mrs. Leona Wright, 45, of rural Lena, crashed head-on. The mishap occurred on Highway 22 one mile west of Stiles Junction in Oconto county. Kleinke and Mrs. Wright were hospitalized at Oconto Falls.

Charles Jewell, 2, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Jewell of Janesville, died at a Janesville hospital Thursday night shortly after he was struck by an automobile in front of his home.

Princess Grace's Father Testifies At Tax Trial

Philadelphia — John B. Kelly, the father of Princess Grace of Monaco, was back in Woman's Medical hospital today after leaving for a few hours to testify at the income tax evasion trial of the family surgeon.

The prominent Philadelphia Democrat who is recuperating from a stomach operation took the stand Thursday as a character witness.

He testified that "everyone knows" Dr. James A. Lehman "bears an excellent reputation." Kelly later returned to the hospital where he was reported in good condition.

Lehman and his wife are accused of evading payment of nearly $300,000 in taxes between the years of 1953 and 1957.

Lehman flew overseas last year to perform an appendectomy on Princess Grace, the former actress Grace Kelly. She currently is here visiting with her family. She flew to Philadelphia immediately after her father was hospitalized last week.

Sen. Proxmire Against Defense Money Addition

Washington — Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis.) said Thursday he is opposed to a senate proposal that would add a billion dollars to the defense department appropriation bill that now totals $40 billion. The bill soon will come up in the senate.

"I recognize that we are in a period where military strength is important," Proxmire said at a news conference. "But for the senate to second guess the defense department and the president seems very unwise and inefficient."

Proxmire also said it is likely that an effort will be made this year to attach an oil depletion amendment to the house-passed excise tax renewal bill. He said support for it is growing and there is a bare chance it may pass in the senate.

Janesville, died at a Janesville hospital Thursday night shortly after he was struck by an automobile in front of his home.

Symington Supporters Count on Deadlock at National Convention

Also Expect Help From Veterans Sam Rayburn and Harry Truman

Washington — Support between Symington and Stevenson. At that point, the two "old pros," former President Harry S. Truman and House Speaker Sam Rayburn, are expected by the Symington camp to swing into action for Symington.

Backs Symington

Truman is actively backing Symington. Rayburn is actively supporting Johnson and claims the Texan will have a minimum of 500 votes on the first ballot.

Rayburn doesn't concede that it will be necessary to decide what to do with the Johnson votes if Johnson can't win. He says Johnson will win. But persons close to the speaker suspect that if a decision became necessary, Rayburn would swing his support to Symington rather than to Stevenson. How many of the Johnson delegates Rayburn could control if Johnson released them is debatable.

They consider Adlai Stevenson the main threat to a Symington victory if Kennedy and Johnson run each other into the ground.

Just as Johnson forces are counting on most of the Symington votes in the late balloting, so are the Symington backers hoping for most of the Johnson delegates if and when the Texan gives up.

"If Symington can hold his starting strength and pick up a few extra votes while Kennedy and Johnson are blocking each other on the early ballots," a congressional strategist in the Symington camp predicted, "we will have an excellent chance to win. It then will be a battle

Man Electrocuted Near Beaver Dam By 7,200-Volt Line

Beaver Dam — Jack Wood, 50, Columbus, line superintendent of the Columbus REA co-op, was electrocuted Thursday while working with a line crew in the town of Calamus near here.

Wood was standing near a truck while a crew member on a pole attempted to ground out a wire carrying 7,200 volts of electricity.

Dodge county authorities said that the wire came in contact with one leading to the truck and Wood got the full impact from the "hot" wire.

Linemen Lawrence Aller and Jerry Andler, both of Columbus, also near the truck when the charge hit it, were hospitalized in Columbus with burns. The other member of the crew, William Bergerson, also of Columbus, was not injured.

Plan to Fix Date for Congress Adjournment

Washington — Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill.) says fixing a date for adjournment of congress will be explored before President Eisenhower leaves for the far east Sunday.

Dirksen, senate Republican leader, told a news conference Thursday there also would be bipartisan discussions over what legislation has to be cleared before congress quits for the national political conventions.

RESEARCHER VERIFIES CHIROPRACTIC FINDINGS

Fifteen years' research by Dr. N. T. Ussher of the research department of the Santa Barbara Clinic, reveals the important relationship between spinal conditions and disease of internal organs.

Conclusive proof was presented which showed that neuralgia and sinus pains of head and face, pulmonary conditions, asthma, heart, and intestinal troubles develop from the interference with the nervous system resulting from spinal conditions. Now, additional evidence of Dr. Ussher is presented which traces the cause of urinary and bladder trouble to the spine.

Valders, Green Bay Girls Win Contest

Seymour — Geneva Ann Peterson, 19, Valders, and Mary Geurts, 21, of 700 S. Ashland avenue, Green Bay, were named finalists in the Region 7 Alice-in-Dairyland contest here Thursday.

The two Oshkosh State college students were among 21 girls vying for the chance to enter the finals at Richland Center June 21-23. Forty girls had sent entry blanks for Thursday's Seymour Kiwanis club sponsored event.

The Valders girl was active in student council activities. Seymour knows the people in its little sphere who gave of their time to be so gracious to you girls," she said. "But in doing this they gave to the state and nation."

"We don't save America in Madison or Washington but where we live," she added. "There is great work for each of us to do. All we have to do is find it," Miss Roach concluded.

Alice's Advice

"Girls, it is so important to take the right step in the right direction," Merrie Jule Barney, Alice in Dairyland, told the contestants before announcing the names. "The winners will be promoting wonderful products to wonderful people," she added.

May Roach, noted Stevens Point State college teacher and speaker, preceded the "Alice" announcement with tips and philosophy for the girls and some 100 Kiwanians and their wives at an evening banquet.

She traced the background of her family to Ireland and the 1800s when the family hewed a home from the Eau Claire wilderness.

Good Life

"It will be some opportunity to stand up in October and say at 75 I've had a darn good life even though I am an old maid," Miss Roach said.

"I believe in the communion of saints. Someone looking at us tonight made all this possible," she said of the contest.

"We must look at Wisconsin as a part of the United States," she said. "I believe my contribution to the state and the nation is made in the place where I am. You get to be a living force when you are," she added.

Girls' Contributing

She told the girls at the dinner their competing in the "Alice" contest was a contribution to their state and nation.

"What you give to people in charm and poise you carry with you all through your life," she said. Miss Roach then pointed to the 1950 "Alice" and told how the girl had grown in charm and poise during the year.

"It's up to all of us to determine what we are going to do to make Wisconsin the best place to live."

In going about your daily activities don't become engrossed in making money so that you lose sight of the beauty of this state, Miss Roach said.

"Only the community of Seymour knows the people in its little sphere who gave of their time to be so gracious to you girls," she said. "But in doing this they gave to the state and nation."

"We don't save America in Madison or Washington but where we live," she added. "There is great work for each of us to do. All we have to do is find it," Miss Roach concluded.

Businessman Gets Idea to Aid Chile's Quake Victims

Los Angeles — An idea hatched by a businessman driving to work has developed into an aid program for earthquake-devastated Chile.

In just 12 hours, the Businessmen's Committee for Chilean Relief was born and today large amounts of drugs—contributed from all parts of the United States—are being flown to the South American country.

The committee won't divulge the amount of money given nor the contributors.

Eight billion units of penicillin or about 40,000 oral doses have reached Chile and nearly 24 million milligrams of antibiotics—for 11,600 children and 5,200 adults—is enroute. More is coming.

A spokesman said the first letters—more than 700 of them—went out less than two weeks ago and more than half of the businessmen immediately returned contributions. Thousands of letters have been sent since.

"Every dollar we get is multiplied by low costs," he said. "We have no administration costs, the packaging is free and the airlines ship it free." The drug companies drastically reduced prices.

"It's to help people and make friends," he said.

Football Game Easier Than Alice Contest, Woman Says

BY ROY F. VALITCHKA II
Post-Crescent Farm Editor

Seymour — "I'd rather have this Alice in Dairyland contest a football game than to sit and try to be nice to someone I'd like to slug," May Roach, speaker at the Region 7 Alice contest said here Thursday night.

"If I didn't win, what a rumpus I'd raise," the 74-year-old educator told the girls.

In the morning, 21 girls spoke with judges and attempted to show the character, charm and poise which each felt would win her the honor of a chance at the "Alice" crown.

Merrie Jule Barney, this year's Alice, said contestants were of a higher caliber than last year. Many were older, she said.

Notes Defects

The girls may have been older and of a higher caliber, Alice said. However, she noted, the judges marked one untidy because a hem in her dress wasn't pressed and still another for what seemed an unnatural untan.

These points aren't noticed by men, Alice in Dairyland said, but girls do see them. These points can make or break a girl's chance as a princess. They may be small points, but they do point out the other possible undesirable traits, she said.

The judging ended shortly before noon and preparations for the parade began to stir in the city.

Cars drew up to street corners carrying horses in trailers, floats suddenly glided to shady spots and there was the sound of a band warming up.

A reporter was upended by an over-eager youth at the wheel of a convertible in a hurry to pick up two "choice" beauties to ride in his car during the parade through Seymour's downtown.

The parade began late—as most parades do. There were horses, bands, floats and, of course, the "Alice" contestants.

"Alice" sat in a red sports car and waved gaily at the crowd. She said she hated the thought of leaving her job in a few weeks—because of dress wasn't pressed and still another for what seemed an unnatural untan.

Miss Barney will leave and a new "Alice" will become Wisconsin's dairy ambassador June 23 at Richland Center. Maybe one of the girl's from the Seymour contest will win the title. Who knows?

North Shore Line Asks Public Service Unit For Increase in Fares

Madison — The North Shore line asked the Wisconsin Public Service commission Thursday to approve higher fares, averaging about 20 per cent, for service between state cities.

The new rates would become effective June 20. Earlier in the day the electric railway which operates between Chicago and Milwaukee asked the interstate commerce commission for similar increases between points in Wisconsin and Illinois. It also seeks to boost fares between Illinois cities.

North Shore petitioned the interstate commission to abandon its facilities but this was denied. The ICC suggested that the utility petition for higher fares.

The Stevenson 'Interview'

Should Adlai Stevenson be nominated by the Democratic party for the presidency there is little doubt that an interview which French Reporter Robert Boulay claims Stevenson gave him, and which Stevenson denies giving, will play an important part in the campaign.

The alleged interview was published in Boulay's Paris paper shortly before the summit conference opened, and some anti-Stevensonites insist that it helped influence Nikita Khrushchev to wreck the conference in the hopes that Stevenson or some other Democratic president would be easier to handle than Mr. Eisenhower. This, in our view, is rather wild speculation; we can hardly picture Khrushchev sitting down to breakfast in Paris, reading the morning paper and then radically revising his government's carefully shaped policy.

The Stevenson interview, however, is still terribly important because Adlai so far has failed to make his denials sound very convincing, and therefore the views Boulay says Stevenson expressed become a part of the Stevenson record unless and until Adlai can pin them down as falsehoods. Stevenson weakened his case badly by at first denying that he had ever met Boulay (shades of the U2 "weather flight") and later admitting that he had entertained Boulay in his home although still insisting that the interview as published was completely inaccurate. "The views Mr. Boulay attributed to me had nothing to do with my opinions and do not in any way correspond with my opinions today," he said. "The most charitable explanation of such irresponsibility, of such presumption and such a lack of courtesy is that his English was poor and my French hardly better."

Adlai's failure to state precisely what parts of the Boulay interview were false, and what views attributed to him "had nothing to do" with his opinions is, we think, significant. The way he has left the matter, one gets the impression that he carried on a rather frank discussion with Boulay thinking that it was a private conversation which would not be reported, and that perhaps he expressed some of his views rather rashly and was dismayed when he saw how they looked in print.

Boulay, incidentally, is described by a U. S. publisher who met him as speaking English fluently, and word from Paris is that he is a highly respected reporter. Here are some of the things he said Stevenson told him:

Boulay: What is the most important thing in present world politics?
Stevenson: The suspension of atomic experimentation . . .

Boulay: Could this be arranged?
Stevenson: Such agreement ought to be possible to achieve by mutual concessions.

Boulay: On Berlin?
Stevenson: Yes . . . the present Berlin situation cannot be continued. Strategically the presence of 11,000 American soldiers there does not mean anything.

Boulay: Should I understand then that you are ready to consider a decrease in American military manpower in Berlin?
Stevenson: Yes.

And then, if Boulay is to be believed, Stevenson made the most astounding remark of all:

For the last 10 years there has not really been any U. S. secretary of state. During all that time the real secretary of state of the United States has been the German Chancellor Adenauer.

Stevenson is not only a possible next president of the United States, but has been widely considered as the most probable secretary of state under some other Democratic president. Therefore, it is a matter of vital interest to the American people whether he actually said any or all of these things, or anything like them. At a time when the Communists are making more brutal attacks on our country than ever before, when they are obviously probing to find any weaknesses we may have, the American people surely will want to know if our foreign policy is to be directed by a man with fuzzy notions about making deals with the Reds. Surely this is a time for Adlai to make sense to the American people.

A Poor Spot for Politics

Gov. Nelson, obviously irked at Republican criticisms, tried to make a political issue out of the dysentery cases and deaths at the Southern Colony mental institution. It was unfortunate because there is no single cause for the problem.

Both Northern and Southern Colony institutions are overcrowded but dysentery has been no problem to date at the Northern Colony. Authorities give as the reason the fact Southern Colony has a higher percentage of the most seriously retarded, the tragic people of all ages who must be cared for as if they were three months old. There is a much higher mortality rate in this group from a number of causes. The particular form of dysentery listed as a primary or contributing cause of the deaths always has been a danger in every institution. Hospital nurseries sometimes have outbreaks of it when there is no overcrowding and when there is plenty of qualified help. Authorities at Southern Colony have been careful to indicate that elimination of the overcrowding, and even the construction of a hospital, will not necessarily wipe out dysentery.

The best thing about the ruckus is that the public has become aware of the ever increasing problem of overcrowding in the pathetic wards. But this need is not new nor will it be solved overnight. It may be that these institutions should have priority over the building demands of other state institutions such as the colleges or universities, for instance.

But it would have been better to have had an earlier announcement of the dysentery problem. Then efforts of both parties to conceal their ignorance of the situation with wild blasts would have been avoided.

Public Employment Rules

The quarrel about the hiring of a new state apprenticeship supervisor in the state industrial commission has disclosed there is bad feeling among the new Democratic chairman and the two Republican holdover members of that vital state agency. That is a regrettable development, especially to workingmen and employers who are familiar with the wide range of responsibilities of this department which is the administrator of most of our labor laws and our factory safety and hygiene statutes.

But perhaps more significant in the long range is the utterly curious attitude of the Wisconsin State Employees association in the dispute. The association is demanding that the state rewrite its employee recruiting policies so that most of such key assignments within the state employee establishment will be filled by the promotion of underlings when vacancies occur.

One member of the commission, who had voted for the appointment of an outsider after an open and competitive examination of candidates, expostulated that such a rule would "stultify" the proud ideal of the merit system the state statute on the civil service has always upheld. He is right.

While it is reasonable to suppose that subordinates in state agencies frequently will qualify for promotions when their superiors retire or otherwise leave, it is suggestive, at the least, that the employee union should protest the idea of competing with qualified outsiders.

Question Eating by Teenagers

From The Wichita (Kan.) Eagle

Once again the dietary experts are picking on the eating habits of the young. Government studies suggest that most of the future wives and mothers in the United States are so poorly fed that they are "malnourished." Of nine million girls between 13 and 19, more than five million exist on snacks, soft drinks, French fries, pizza, candy, hamburgers and waffles, the researchers find.

And the guys are not very far behind the dolls in poor eating habits.

Americans as a whole eat 15 per cent more than they did in 1900, grow taller and live longer. But a warning is out that unless the young fry gets acquainted with milk, meat, fruits and vegetables, there will be a shorter life span in the future and shorter people. Perhaps even the 7-foot basketball player will vanish.

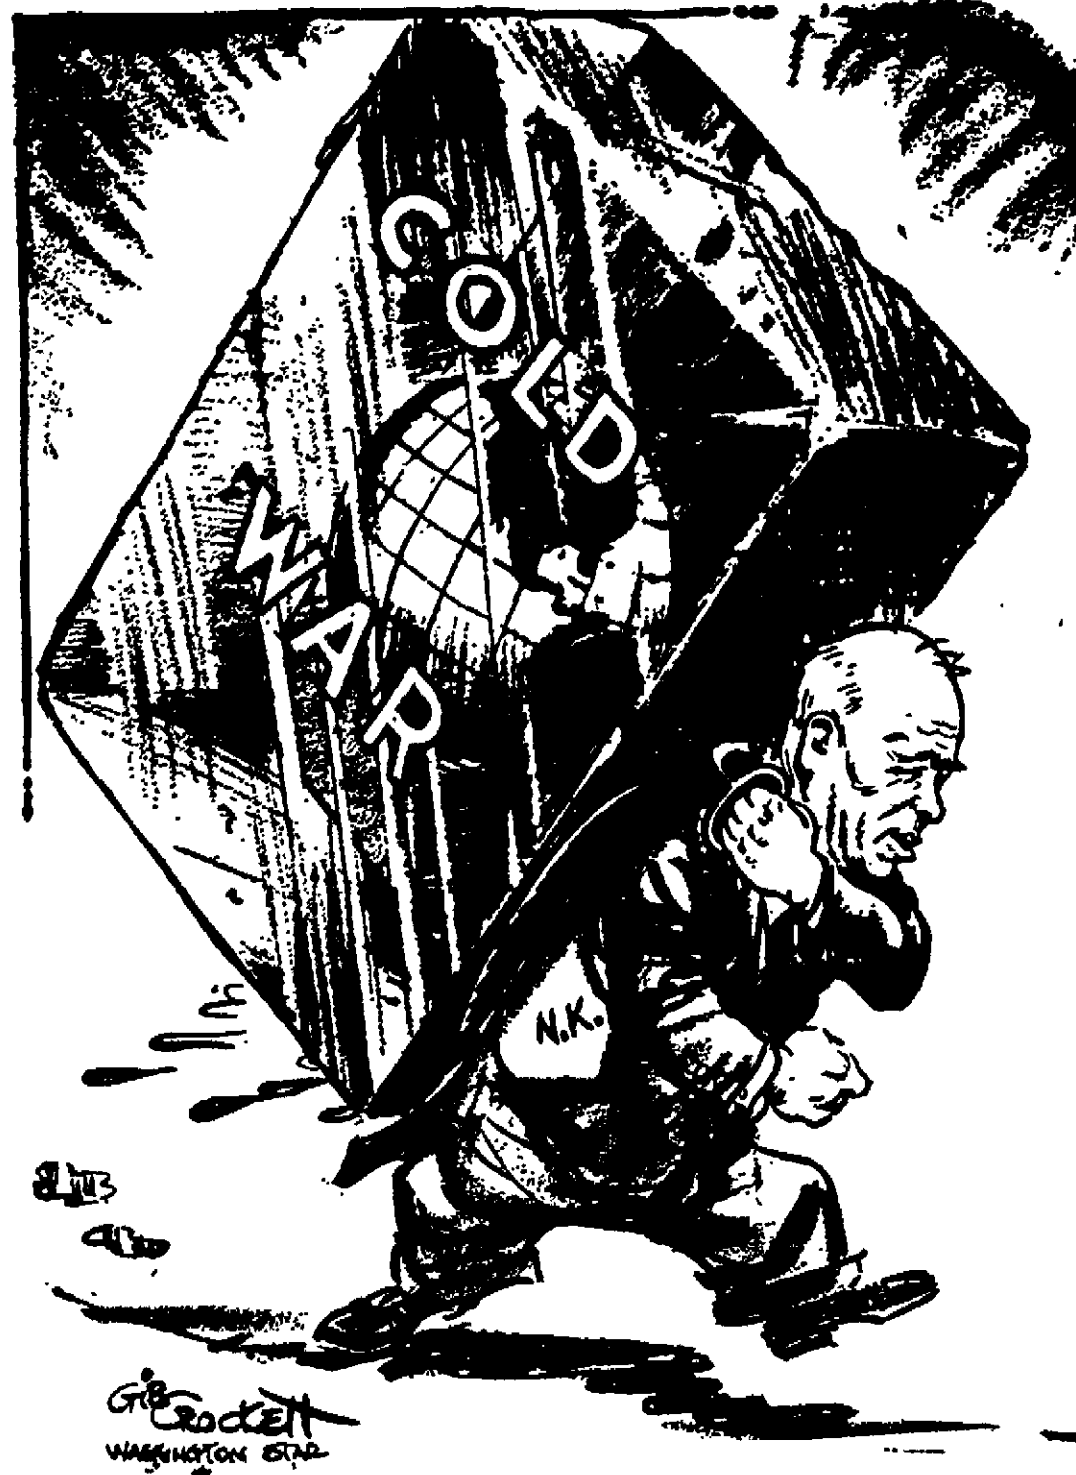

That warning may not do much good but there is a way to work on the teenage girl if their mothers and others will just do it. The experts say that a teenager may cut her intake drastically now and preserve a slender figure but it will be at the sacrifice of her glamor in later life.

For the girl the question is, "Suppose your fancied 'loveliness' now turns you into an old hag at age 30?"

Good Advice, but . . .

Menashan Charges Post-Crescent Opposed to Negroes on Juries

Editor, Post-Crescent:

In your editorial of May 19, 1960, you painted a very pretty picture of how fairly Negroes were treated in Appleton.

This may be true but, from your previous editorials, it seems that you are hardly the one qualified to paint such a pretty picture.

I refer you to your editorial of April 6, 1960, in which you took exception to the use of Negroes on a jury in the trial of James Hoffa. Also the use of Negro defense attorneys and the fact that Joe Louis and James Hoffa were friends.

I don't propose to become engaged in a discussion as to whether Hoffa was guilty or not, that is something for the courts to decide and not the press. Incidentally the court found him not guilty.

What is wrong with the use of Negroes on juries?

Your double talking editorial borders on the ridiculous. One day your editorial welcomes Negroes with open arms, and the next day it tries to deny them their rights as American citizens.

Your editorial of April 6, 1960, attempted to use the racial issue as a means to strike back at a man you obviously dislike. In doing so you attempt to set yourself up as judge and jury. Since when have we stooped to trial by press? Since when has the press had pre-eminence over our courts.

An expression of opinion is a right enjoyed by the people of this country but biased editorials are an expression of hate.

The newspapers have recently been taken to task by members of the press association for improper behavior and editorials, and rightfully so, because the attitude of the newspaper editors has been in need of correction. Before you accuse somebody of having a dirty backyard, you had better take a look at yours it could stand cleaning up.

Asks Caution, Alertness by Auto Drivers

Editor, Post-Crescent:

I am compelled to write you regarding the slaughter on our highways.

This weekend 13 accidents marred the vacation picture. Ten of those accidents were fatalities.

What are we, the public, to do? We can remember now that school is out, now that more and more people are taking to the highways, now that there are more cars, with more horsepower, to be more alert in our driving habits.

I want to beg every reader of your paper to be ever aware that every time he drives, danger is with him . . . his constant companion. That courtesy is the rule of the road, that fatigue is conducive to accidents, that alcohol merely serves to befog your mind and blur the vision, and, produces overconfidence.

Anyone who ever has witnessed a fatal accident, the bodies lying on the road like broken dolls, can never forget that, minutes before, those persons were gaily planning their next days' activities. I have seen many of them and the sight is forever burned on my memory.

Speed is not the answer, neither are the little plastic statutes that many drivers have mounted on the dash of their family auto. No, it takes more than that, and it is going to require even more. More caution, more alertness, every second behind the wheel of a car. Accidents don't just happen . . . they're caused! So, for everyone, please Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for the week of June 9, 1860.

Whew! We clip the following extract from the Oshkosh Northwestern, noting a meeting of the Republican club in that city:

"After business matters were disposed of, Hon. A. B. Jackson, of Appleton, was called out, and made a stirring speech — brief but to the point. In giving a short account of the prospects ahead, he stated Outagamie County, though hitherto thoroughly Democratic, would, he was confident, roll up a respectable majority for Lincoln and Hamlin in November."

Ha! Ha! The honorable gentleman has sadly been fooling the Oshkosh people. Republicanism doesn't go down with Outagamies, and all that will be necessary to increase the Democratic majority this fall, will be for the Democrats to employ Mr. Jackson to travel through the county and retail his peculiar Republican arguments.

Sheriff Candidates Busting Out All Over

BY JOHN WINGAARD

Madison — The fourteenth candidate for county sheriff has just announced his aspiration in Milwaukee. There remains more than a month for the devotees of law enforcement to make their public professions of willingness to serve in that office. It may be that the burghers of Milwaukee are heading into another vintage year, such as that memorable season not long ago when no less than 80 candidates for the office cluttered the ballot.

There may be in the biennial crush of eager applicants for this office some meat for reflection by the citizen concerned about causes and effects in his governmental affairs.

Why this clamorous eagerness to run for this particular office, rather than for the mayoralty, or the county board chairmanship (which now is elected in Milwaukee) or for congressman, or even for the legislature?

Why does the man on the street so naturally suppose that he is qualified for this office, while he hesitates to equate his abilities and his ambitions with others also theoretically available to him?

ONE REASON

One reason may be that in many of the larger districts of the state the elective sheriff has become an anachronism in the seventh decade of the 20th century.

The realistic fact is that it doesn't matter very much whether Stanislaus Q. Nutmeg gets elected sheriff in the larger counties. Affairs have been so arranged that there is a professional staff on duty notwithstanding, and enforcement goes on pretty much as before, whatever vagaries are demonstrated in the balloting every second November.

But in the smaller counties the sheriff continues to serve in person as a law enforcement functionary. In such counties the civil service ordinance idea has not yet been adopted, moreover, and he also hires and fires his deputies and has a good remember that eternity may be just around the next curve, or down that interesting looking side road, or behind that truck.

Elizabeth L. Hammar
726 W. Main Street,
Little Chute, Wis.

deal of power and importance that his contemporary doesn't have in the larger jurisdictions.

It is here that the idea of a casually elected sheriff is a serious anomaly.

The elected sheriff who may or may not be qualified — as distinguished from skillful in vote-getting — as a practical matter works largely in rural and unincorporated areas. In the cities there are professional police staffs charged with the enforcement of law and the apprehension of wrongdoers. In effect, the elective sheriff system implies that rural Wisconsin is entitled only to second class enforcement, or the best of those non-professionals who happen to offer themselves at election time.

The election of a city police chief would be recognized instantly as an absurdity. The recruitment of almost all other specialists in the complex public services of today according to standards of training and achievement is elementary. But a basic part of the law enforcement system in a large expanse of Wisconsin continues to rely upon the accident of ballot offerings, and the ability of the electors to distinguish them.

THE CRITICISM

There are those occasional critics who condemn the idea that the sheriff is a part of the party system, running under the label of Republican or Democrat, rather than as a non-partisan or independent.

Such complaints fall short of the real mark. Indeed, the parties have a perfectly sensible reason for welcoming candidates for sheriff. They strengthen local tickets and in some of the more rural districts, they bring the party a fair serving of patronage.

The real question is why the sheriff should be elected. It is as the wit once said, it is not so surprising that a dog doesn't walk on his hind legs well.

The surprise is that he can do it at all.

The surprise is that the law enforcement machine functions as well as it does, given its chancy base and illogical separation from the rules that otherwise govern modern administration.

Washingtonians May Have Dry New Year's Eve

From The Milwaukee Journal

You may have missed it, but there's a burning question that many residents insist upon getting settled as soon as possible.

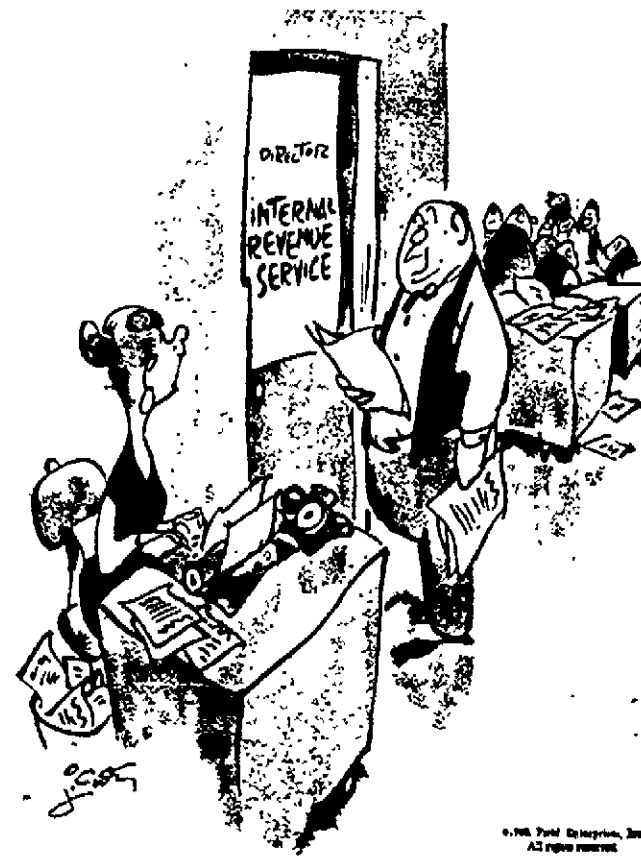

New Year's eve in 1960 falls on a Saturday. Under District of Columbia laws, bars have to close at the stroke of midnight every Saturday. Thus unless the law is changed, New Year's eve celebrants in Washington will be turned out drinkless into the streets just at the height of the festivities.

Whether to let Washingtonians drink past midnight that night if they want is not a local issue, however, but a national one. It's up to congress — which insists on serving as the city council. And congress is considering the matter now.

Surely the residents should be able to decide this for themselves. It's another example of why the district home rule bill, still bottled up in congress, needs passage.

Pressures Mark Lawrence's Year

Knight Tells Trustees About Enrollment, Finance, Intellect

"A year of pressures" is the way President Douglas M. Knight characterized the 1959-60 Lawrence college year in his annual report to the board of trustees this morning at Riverview country club.

Most dramatic of the pressures has come in student enrollment, he pointed out, but there are pressures almost as strong in the intellect and college finance.

"The pressure on us from student applications is at a point of remarkable — indeed disturbing — change," Dr. Knight related. "Enrollment pressure which we thought might come in five or six years is likely to come in two or three."

Must Take Load

"When I was in England in January I got for the first time a direct sense of what it means in a society to restrict college enrollments drastically and arbitrarily to a fixed percentage of secondary school graduates. We cannot do this; instead we must continue to judge each student on his merits, and if he deserves education beyond the high school, we must see that he gets it somewhere. We cannot always guarantee that he will get it at Lawrence, of course; but we must take as much of the increased load as we can."

Knight pointed to the increase in "scholarship" aid Lawrence has been obliged to give. A decade back, Lawrence spent $16,000 a year for scholarships; next year the amount is $210,000.

"To put the matter another way," he said, "while our tuition has roughly doubled in the ten years, our awards of scholarships have gone up 13 times, and in this way we are protecting and encouraging the student of limited means."

Commenting on intellectual give us space for another 30 or 75."

President Knight also announced plans for a $300,000 to $300,000 addition to the college library, which he described as "one of our two most acute academic needs at the moment."

The second acute need lies in science hall, even though it was completely remodeled 10 years ago. More room for research and more equipment are necessary to fight absolutes in that critical field, he said.

Knight related that the search for faculty members will be an increasing problem in the next five years. "The press of students will not be matched by an equal press of new teachers; and we already find ourselves bidding not only against long-established public and private institutions but against new state-supported liberal arts colleges which have handsome budgets and no senior faculty to take priority over the young people to whom they offer senior jobs."

President Knight urged, "If we were ever to lose our competitive salary position, we would suffer in five years damage that it might take a whole generation to repair."

In conclusion, Dr. Knight paid tribute to the role of the trustee in private education.

"Without you we would simply be struggling to stay in the same place," he said. "It is your voluntary position here that gives you our strength; you are not compelled, you are not paid, and as a result you are free to be committed."

Tree Growers Object to Nursery Plan

Say State Forest Program Is Driving Business Away

Post-Crescent News Service

La Crosse — Private nursery men today complained to the state conservation commission that the tax-supported state forest tree nursery program is driving them out of business.

Conservation commissioners were told at a meeting here by Thomas Pinney of Sturgeon Bay, speaking for the Wisconsin Nurserymen's association, that the private operators can equal or better the state costs of production if they are permitted to produce for the state forestry division.

The state now sells about 40,000,000 young trees each year for public and private forest planting, figured at the cost of production. The nurserymen say the state prices are artificial because some of the overhead costs are not counted. Although the state sometimes imports stock from other states, Pinney said the private producers had never been invited to bid.

Safe Trees Misused

Pinney said his colleagues in private business in Wisconsin this year will destroy 5,000,000 young trees because they cannot sell them. But the

"The state treasurer could be getting our checks for income taxes. Instead the taxpayer is getting bills for higher costs," said the nurseryman at a public hearing here.

The private producers have also charged repeatedly that many of the state produced trees are being used for urban ornamental planting and for Christmas tree plantations, contrary to the provisions of law.

John Beale, state forester, told the commission he had often tried to run down such complaints but has been unable to confirm them.

Engineers Hear Talk on State Folkways

Woman Uses Colored Films to Augment Speech

Miss Edith H. Quade, curator of education for the Milwaukee Public Museum, presented a "Parade of Wisconsin Folkways" Thursday to members of the Fox River Valley chapter of the Wisconsin Society of Professional Engineers and their wives.

Miss Quade told her audience at the Conway hotel that people can love their state more by understanding the international peoples who belong to the composite picture of Wisconsin's foreign heritage. She used colored movies in which the nationalities were shown entwined with the four seasons.

Miss Quade began the story of Wisconsin's melting pot with late winter on a maple sugar grove at Two Rivers. The people she introduced in the movie are continuing the Indian method of tree tapping, sap collecting and other steps involved in producing syrup and sugar.

From Two Rivers Miss Quade traced spring and summer as it is enjoyed by Americanized Germans in Watertown, a Netherlands settlement who still make wooden shoes, Italian-Americans and Syrian-Americans with annual festivals in Milwaukee and a Chinese-American farmer who lives in Racine county. All of these citizens have maintained their national identities through continuance of traditions. Even though these identities are easily lost in the intermingling of all peoples of all heritages in Wisconsin, they can be discovered, she said.

The audience then was taken into autumn to join Milwaukee's Irish in tea drinking, jig dancing and clay-pipe smoking.

Winter came and the scene shifted back to Watertown to witness goose-noodling and German Christmas customs. Then a trip to Beloit showed how Norwegian and Swedish Americans hold annual ski jumping meets.

For the final presentation the speaker took her viewers to a curling demonstration in Wauwatosa and Scotsmen's ceremonies to honor the poet, Robert Burns.

Newly-elected officers of the engineering chapter were installed. They are Harold H. Brown, president; William O. White, Sheboygan, vice president; and Arne V. Larson, Clintonville, secretary-treasurer.

Suspects in Bank Holdup Found Guilty

Order Pre-Sentence Investigation for: Wing, Mrs. Schley

Earl Wing, 54, of Shiocton, and Mrs. Ann Schley, 36, of Milwaukee, were found guilty Thursday night in Milwaukee federal court of the attempted holdup of the Nichols State bank last Feb. 29.

Judge Robert E. Tehan ordered a pre-sentence investigation after the jury returned the guilty verdict.

A third member of the trio, Leonard R. Lepley, 29, Milwaukee, pleaded guilty earlier to a charge of attempted holdup and is awaiting sentence.

The trio faces a maximum term of 25 years.

Charges of armed robbery against Wing and Mrs. Schley were dropped Thursday.

Lepley claimed that Mrs. Schley had nothing to do with the holdup but statements by Wing and evidence gathered by the FBI and Outagamie county authorities implicated the woman.

Lepley entered the bank with a shotgun but was routed by Assistant Cashier Darrell Hahn who grabbed a gun and outbluffed the bandit. The trio was arrested a short time later near the Wing farm in rural Shiocton.

Redlegs Shove Giants Another Game Off Pace

Lynch, Pinson and Lockman Homer;
Pirates Blast Cubs

By the Associated Press
San Francisco's slumping Giants shove off on what could be a week of worries—seven days against Milwaukee and Pittsburgh—as they open a 4-game series with the Braves tonight.

The second-place Giants slid two games behind Pittsburgh in the National league race with a 7-4 loss to Cincinnati Thursday, their sixth defeat in 11 games on the home stand, while the Pirates rapped Chicago's Cubs, 11-3.

Milwaukee, 4½ games behind in third place, made it seven out of nine by coming from behind for a 6-5 victory at Los Angeles Thursday night in the only other game scheduled.

Lynch Homers

The Reds came from behind on four runs with two out in the seventh. They got three on Jerry Lynch's home run off loser Jack Sanford, then counted the deciding run when reliever Billy O'Dell walked Willie Jones with the bases loaded. Reliever Billy Loes then gave up solo homers by Vada Pinson and "Whitey" Lockman in the eighth and ninth.

Lefty Bill Henry saved it for Joe Nuxhall (1-2) by fanning pinch-hitter Willey McCovey and getting Willie Kirkland on a fly with the bases loaded in the eighth.

Don "Hoak" drove in three runs as the Pirates beat Glen Hobbie (5-7) for the third time. Bob Friend (7-3) won it with two innings of hitless relief by Fred Green after Ernie Banks hit a 2-run homer in the sixth.

The homer—his fourteenth —tied him with Ken Boyer of St. Louis for the National league lead. Bank's two RBIs gave him the league lead in that department with 44.

6-Point Plan Adopted by NFL To Choose Champion Passer

Dallas, Texas —(AP)—The

A 6-point system to deter-

Rigney Finds His Team's Batting Slump 'Amazing'

San Francisco —(AP)—San Francisco Manager Bill Rigney kept the press cooling its collective heels nearly a half hour after the Giants lost, 7-4, to Cincinnati Thursday. When the newsmen did shuffle into his office, Rigney observed:
"That's just amazing, just amazing, amazing. It's just amazing how we don't hit."
The Giants have lost three of their last four games and six in 11 in their current home stand. They lost only five of the first 19 they played in Candlestick park.

Tigers Triumph, 7-5 and 7-4; Indians Sweep Boston Series

By the Associated Press
The Cleveland Indians, leading the American league by 14 games now that Baltimore's "Baby Birds" have laid an egg, roll into Yankee stadium for the opener of a 4-game series tonight in a showdown with the revived New York Yankees.

Cleveland now has won five in a row, sweeping a 4-game set at Boston with a 3-2 decision over the last place Red Sox - Thursday. Baltimore, blowing a 11-game lead in 48 hours, dropped a two-night doubleheader to Detroit, 7-5 and 7-4; as the Tigers swept the 4-game series and handed the Orioles their sixth defeat in eight games.

The Yankees, 34 games behind after winning five of their last six, made it three straight over Chicago with a 5-2 victory that spilled the White Sox to fifth. 2 percentage points behind Detroit.

Kansas City ended its losing string at five with a 7-2 victory at Washington.

Monbouquette Loses
A sixth-inning home run by George Strickland, the first of the year by the Cleveland third baseman, hung the defeat over Bill Monbouquette (5-5). Rookie Wynn Hawkins (4-3) needed two innings of 2-hit shutout relief by Johnny Knippstein for his first victory in three decisions.

The Tigers made it six out of seven on a pair of home runs by Frank Bolling, who drove in five runs to beat reliever Arnie Portocarrero (3-2) in the opener. Then the Tiger second baseman triggered a five-run fifth with a 2-run homer as Detroit wiped out a 2-1 Baltimore lead and beat Hal "Skinny" Brown (5-2).

The A's junked their slump with six runs on seven consecutive utive hits with two out in the fifth inning. Danny Kravitz's first AL home run, a 3-run, inside-the-park job, was the big blow off loser Pedro Ramos (3-7). Ken Johnson (2-3) was the winner.

12-Hit Attack

The Yanks' 12-hit attack was sparked by Mickey Mantle's third home run in two days and eleventh of the year, with one on in the fourth.

Relief pitcher Johnny James held the Sox hitless in the fifth and sixth innings after replacing starter Ralph Terry, who bowed out for a pinch hitter, Bobby Shantz who followed James, the winning pitcher, allowed only one harmless hit in the last three innings. Frank Baumann was the losing pitcher.

A single by Luis Aparicio scored Jim Landis in the third for Chicago's first run. Then Aparicio stole second, advanced to third on Nellie Fox's bunt single and scored on Minnie Minoso's sacrifice fly.

The Sox move to Boston tonight where Russ Kemmerer (2-3) faces Tom Brewer (4-5).

Vossler, Goetz Share Lead at Oklahoma City

Oklahoma City —(P) The south wind—always a factor in Oklahoma golf tournaments—resumed Thursday after being calm several days but it didn't stop Ernie Vossler and Bobby Goetz from grabbing the lead in the first round of the Oklahoma City open.

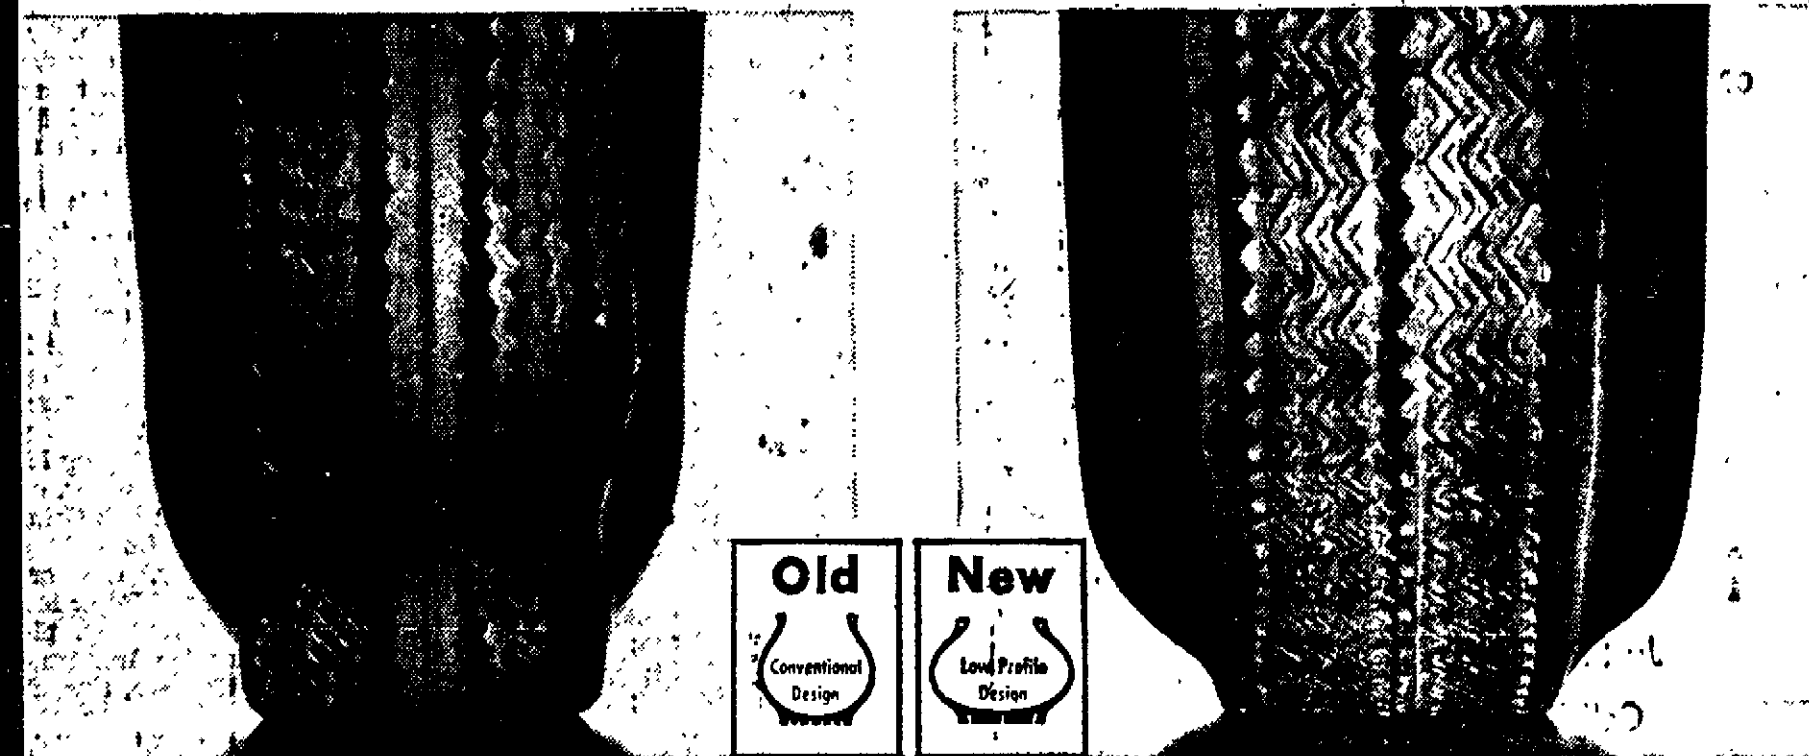

Vossler, a veteran from Midland, Texas, and Goetz, a rookie on the professional circuit from Tulsa, Okla., fired 5-under par 66's over the 6,440-yard, par 71 Twin Hills Country club course.

The 72-hole, $30,000 tournament ends Sunday.

Hot on the trail of Goetz and Vossler going into today's second round was Johnny Pott, who carved out a 35-32-67.

Arnold Palmer, the defending champion, started with a 2-over par 37 on the front nine then closed with five birdie putts for a 31 and a 68 total that tied him with Bob McCallister, Tommy Jacobs and Don Fairfield.

Evashevski Is Promoted to Athletic Chief

Iowa Will Need New Grid Coach For 1961 Season

Iowa City, Iowa — The appointment of Forest Evashevski as athletic director at the State University of Iowa leaves the job of finding someone to carry on his highly successful record as university football coach.

The problem was put into words Thursday afternoon by Arthur Barlow of Cedar Rapids, a member of the state board of regents. "The only regrettable thing about 'Evy's' appointment as athletic director is that we will be losing the best football coach in the country," Barlow said after the board named Evashevski to succeed the department head, Paul Brechler. While the problem exists, it is not immediate. Evashevski will take over Aug. 15 when Brechler leaves to become commissioner of the Skyline conference but the 1960 Iowa football squad will be an Evashevski-coached team. Nearly a year That leaves nearly a year to find a new head coach. Meanwhile, Evashevski will continue at his present salary, $20,000 a year, although the way was left open to give him a raise next year if the regents see fit. In the choice of jobs at the university, Evashevski had his pick. His coaching contract runs to 1963 and he was offered new annual tenure amounting to four years made up his mind to step up. "This will make my twentieth season of football coaching," said the man who has brought Iowa two Big Ten championships and two Rose bowl titles. "I hadn't intended to go on coaching for a long time."

receive 30 per cent of the gate with the balance going to Silverman.

The orders followed the two rapid-fire suits. One by a Baltimore boxing club asked a $9,000 claim from Robinson for failing to appear in a scheduled bout there May 16 which led to Sugar's suspension in Maryland and New York.

Brings Injunction Local promoter Nuno Cam brought an injunction against Silverman and the Boston Garden Arena corporation claiming Silverman is running a rematch in violation of an oral partnership agreement.

Pender figures to fight as he did before, moving cautiously, staying out of Robinson's way in the early stages to let Ray tire himself. Retired three times because of brittle hands, Pender takes a 36-5-2 record into the bout.

Robinson probably will go for a quick knockout to erase any doubts. His record is 143-7-2 with one no-decision encounter.

The 10-point must system prevails in the scoring with the winner of a round getting 10 points and the loser nine or less. Even rounds are scored 10-10.

Conservation Commission Told

Far Northern Wisconsin to be Secondary Deer Hunting Area

Post-Crescent News Service

La Crosse — The Wisconsin far north, which has been regarded by deer stalkers as favorite territory for decades, will be secondary deer hunting country for the indefinite future, the Wisconsin Conservation commission was told here last night.

The most abundant deer harvest now and in the future will be in a belt of central counties, roughly south of Highway 64 and stretching down toward the Madison district, said John Keener of the State Game division in an informal lecture on the biological trends of the Wisconsin deer herd.

The commission is holding its monthly meeting here today.

Will Continue Keener, explaining that state biologists know more about the characteristics of the deer herd, range conditions, productivity and other factors than ever before because of the intensive and expensive research stretching over years, said the problems of surplus deer in the north will continue.

But they will be less severe if the state can manage its regulations to draw hunters into the far northern zones. The abundance of the animals in the more accessible regions, however, has made that difficult.

The carrying capacity of the far northern counties probably has been reduced permanently. While the productivity of the central zone has been enhanced with changes in conditions.

Far North In the far north, productivity is only 25 per cent; in the central counties it is up to 40 per cent, the department specialist reported.

Keener said the state can probably stand, on a permanent basis, a controlled deer harvest that will account for 75,000 to 100,000 animals each season. It has done so for the last three years, he reminded, and public opinion has been brought around to accepting heavier harvests in the future, he said.

"We have had the best public understanding of the deer problem during the last five years we have ever had," Keener told the commissioners who will set the 1960 fall shooting rules at their July meeting.

Ceremonies Slated at Linwood

Appleton's Second LL Year Opens Saturday

Colorful ceremonies at 4 p.m. Saturday on the Linwood park diamond will inaugurate Appleton's second season of Little league baseball.

The season's first game, which will start immediately after the ceremonies, will match Western division teams sponsored by the Berggren Brothers and the Teamsters in a Western division game.

The number of teams participating in the program for the 9-to-12-year-olds has increased from six in 1959 to 10 this year. The number of players has grown from 300 to 480—with 180 of these participating in the "majors" and the rest in the "minors," where a schedule of games will also be set up.

New teams in the Eastern division are Home Mutual insurance, managed by George Washecheck and the Breakfast Optimist club with Chuck Kliefoth as manager.

New Western Clubs Holdover entries in the Eastern division are: Northside Advancement, George Lutz; Southside Athletic club, Jerry Cavert; Appleton Post-Crescent, Ken Griffith; and the Appleton Coated Paper-Fox River Knitting Fox-Sox, Harold VonderHere.

New Western division teams are Baur truck, managed by Harold Huttenberg; and Berggren's, managed by Vince Derschled.

Returning Western sponsors are Badger Highway, Don Green; Jenkel Oil, Ken Hendricks; Teamsters, Ves Gregorius; and VFW, Milt Drier.

To accommodate the enlarged schedule, a third diamond — Lincoln — is being added. Fields at Linwood and the SSAC are being used for the second year.

Appleton will enter LL tournament play for the first time, officials indicate.

The Western division opener, with appropriate ceremonies, will take place at 5:45 Monday on the SSAC field. The game will pit the Fox-Sox against Northside Advancement.

Except for Saturday's opening at Linwood, all games will start at 5:45. Each team will play 15 games this season. LL games run six innings. Bases are 60 feet apart, and the pitchers' mound is 46 feet from the plate.

All Teams on Hand All LL players from both divisions — not just the two competing teams — will be on hand, and in uniform, for Saturday's Linwood ceremonies. A color guard will take part in the program, and Mayor Clarence Mitchell will throw out the first ball.

Among the officials to be presented are H. J. "Kelly" Weller, chairman of the board of the Appleton Junior Baseball association (which governs both LL and Babe Ruth baseball); Bud Falk, LL president; Harold VonderHere, LL vice president; Treasurer Robert Bobber; Secretary Frank Bourassa; Ray Renier, director of umpires; Bob DeNoble, director of LL and BR; George Barry, director of equipment; and Roger Brandt and LeRoy DeBrum, player agents for the Western and Eastern divisions, respectively.

Players who'll participate in Saturday's opening game are:

BERGGREN'S: Bob Barlow, Kirby Bock, David Brum, Eric Derschled, Bill Foth, Jim Geiger, Darwin Griffith.

THUNDERBOLT ENGINE

Before you buy any outboard in the 25-40 hp class, compare it with a Mercury — the best horsepower buy in outboard history! A Merc 300 gives 40 hp performance plus the extra dependability and smoothness of 4-cylinder design, but is yours for about the same price as competitors' 25 hp motors with only two cylinders. And a 4-cylinder Merc 400 has 45 hp performance but is priced in the range of competitors' 40 hp 2-cylinder motors.

BIG POWER at low cost is just one reason why you'll want a dependable Mercury "four" — the modern in-line engine design with lighter, tougher reciprocating parts and much lower piston speeds than competitors' long-stroke, big-bore twins. Mercury's short-stroke, small-bore design reduces inertia forces — the main cause of engine wear — to only about one-third those of competitors' outboards operating at the same RPM. So you get not only bonus performance but longer engine life! See your dealer for a demonstration of Mercury — 6 to 80 hp. Ask about liberal trades, easy terms.

Fox Cities Foxes Business Manager Bob Willis claims that he employs "the fastest ball-chasers in the Three-I league."

"All our chasers (the youngsters who retrieve foul balls for the club) would probably be clocked in under 11 seconds for the 100-yard dash," asserts Willis.

"Balls are about $2 a copy," Bob says, "and we probably lose fewer than any one else in organized ball."

Willis' reputation for economical operation is well-known and it's entirely possible that he put a stop watch on applicants for "chasing" jobs before hiring them.

Xavier High school Coach Gene "Torchy" Clark returned to Appleton last weekend after attending a school for prospective Greyhound bus drivers in Minneapolis, Clark, who had considered driving a bus this summer, decided the work wasn't for him.

Former Appleton High school athlete Al Coenen will get his first prep coaching experience at Brillion High school. Al is a recent graduate of Oshkosh State college.

Don Hoff, athletic director and football and track coach at Brillion during the past school year, was recently hired as head grid and curling mentor at Portage High.

Coenen, the brother of St. Norbert college's 1959 football captain Jim Coenen, has been breaking in as an area basketball official the past several seasons.

Every Green Bay track sectional class A running record from 220 yards to the mile has been set by an Appleton High school athlete who later went on to the University of Wisconsin.

Brothers Austin and John Cotton own two of them, in the 440 and 880-yard runs, respectively. Austin, later the Big Ten indoor half mile champion, ran the quarter mile in :51.8 in 1954.

John, the Badgers' 1961 track captain, zipped to a 2:02.5 half mile time in 1956.

Also in 1956, John Jooss of AHS established the 220-yard dash mark, with a :23.15. Last year Don Loker turned in a 4:38.3 mile.

Loker was the UW's frosh track captain during the past season. Jooss earned his freshman football numerals at Wisconsin in 1957 and was considered a good varsity prospect as a center, but then left school.

The Fox Cities Foxes' "Photi" Anthony has been wearing glasses in recent games after starting the season without them. "Photi" and pitcher George Stepanovich are members of the Greek Orthodox church.

George Sosnak, the little Three-I umpire with the squeaky "STEERIK" call who worked here for the Foxes' latest home stand, is an art instructor in the off-season.

Sosnak, who is self-taught, paints sports cartoons on baseballs to pick up pocket money. He has done this work for major leaguers Harvey Kuenn and Al Kaline, among others. It takes Sosnak from 2-3 hours per ball.

The Sioux City - Des Moines game of Sunday was played in Yankton, S. D., as a special promotion.

Looking from the stands out into the Goodland field parking lot recently, Foxes President Ray McClone took notice of the string of late-model cars parked near the gate.

The autos are the property of the Fox players—some of whom received bonuses totaling over $300,000 for signing.

"If we run low on money during the season, I know who we can go to for a loan," smiled McClone as he looked at the cars.

Fox outfielder Frank Montgomery, who is studying towards a degree in medicine, applied some of his medical background in treating an injured youngster recently in the club's dressing room. Incidentally Montgomery, whose shoe size (5 1/2) was mentioned here previously, played several 1960 games in Little League shoes when official baseball spikes were unavailable.

The pint-sized Foxes' home bath is Mike Weaver, 9-year-old son of Manager Earl. Mike joined the club when school was out in St. Louis.

Fox third baseman Pete Ward and Topeka third sacker Billy Martin both played in the class C California league last year, and both batted .321.

Pete's off to the better start in 1960.

Hank Aaron's Batting Mark Drops to .291

Dressen, Scheffing
Agree He's Trying
For Bad Pitches

Los Angeles —What has happened to Hammerin' Hank Aason who a year ago was hitting above the .400 mark in the National league?

His current mark is .291 and he has hit safely only twice in his last 22 times at bat.

Manager Charlie Dressen of the Milwaukee Braves, outwardly at least, isn't concerned with the batting slump of his star outfielder who last year led the National league with a mark of .355.

Would Be Different
"If he was a Johnny-come-lately it would be different," Dressen said Thursday before his Braves nosed out the Dodgers, 6-5. "But in the last five years he had never hit less than .314. That means he is established as a big league hitter."

He seems to be lunging at the ball and not swinging through. He is taking good pitches and swinging at bad ones, but that will right itself in time."

Coach Bob Scheffing agreed with the manager that Aaron is hitting at bad pitches. "He's got to start cutting off the good ones and lay off the stuff not in the strike zone," Scheffing said.

Commission Begins Study Of Constitution

The governor cited 61 separate amendments to the constitution during its history, change in plans."

Hagerty said the demonstration was obviously carefully planned and the fact that the demonstrators were singing the song of international communism—raised doubts whether they even had allegiance to Japan.

The demonstrators had been called out by Zengakuren, Japan's extreme leftist student federation, and the leftist Sohyo Federation of Labor Unions.

Japanese police finally cleared an opening around the battered car in which Hagerty, Stephens and U.S. Ambassador Douglas MacArthur had been held prisoner and a U.S. marine helicopter swooped down, picked them up and flew them to a Japanese army base.

From there they drove to the back gate of the heavily guarded U.S. embassy and slipped in, escaping 8,000 demonstrators massed out front. Within a few minutes, students rushed up to the back gate and battled police, who the constitutional limitations kept them from breaking into the organization of the embassy compound.

Refuses Interview
Hagerty refused to see leaders of the demonstrators, and the crowd settled down for an all-night vigil in front of the embassy, chanting and shouting slogans attacking Hagerty, the president's visit and even if they are controversial, Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi.

At his news conference Hagerty was asked whether it

Unperturbed by the Mob, James Hagerty takes some pictures of the demonstrators with his miniature camera after his car was stopped by leftist demonstrators in Tokyo. Hagerty and his companions had to be extricated by helicopter.

"I wouldn't think so," Hagerty the demonstrators had aly replied. "He will be a chance to break through the guest of Japan. Civil Servants Out on Strike

24-Hour Stoppage
In France; 10,000
In Protest March

Paris —More than a million French civil servants struck for 24 hours today for higher wages. Air traffic, garbage collection and a wide variety of other activities were disrupted.

More than 10,000 of the strikers marched to the finance ministry to protest the government's austerity program and its lid on wages. The marchers included nurses in crisp uniforms, postmen and office workers sporting umbrellas topped by union placards.

A police helicopter buzzed overhead, and reinforced police patrols nervously watched from the fringes of the crowd.

"More money, raise salaries, give us the 40-hour week," the demonstrators chanted.

Reports from throughout France indicated the strike was 90 per cent effective among the nation's 1,300,000 ordinary civil servants.

The widespread 24-hour strike even postponed funerals because gravediggers are employed by the government. Workers in private industry and business breathed easier when the trains, buses and subways continued to run normally and an expected sympathy strike by transport workers failed to develop.

The senate bill would tighten up existing penalties for excess planting and close numerous exemptions that farm leaders testified helped build up present staggering and costly wheat surpluses.

Santa Barbara, Calif.—Searchers tonight feared seven men were dead in the mysterious disappearance of a small craft being used to test secret underwater electronic gear.

Seven men were aboard the 42-foot vessel, which left here Tuesday to test electronic equipment at Smuggler's Cove on sparsely populated Santa Cruz island, 20 miles off the coast.

Rocky Rejects Nixon Offer

campaign and seeking to avoid alienating Rockefeller supporters. New York's 45 electoral votes could be decisive in November.

47 News Conferences
Nixon said he had held 47 news conferences "with no holds barred" during the last five months. He said that over the past 14 years "in the house and the senate and the vice presidency I have entertained questions on every major issue."

Rockefeller countered with: "Only three weeks ago, the vice president stated publicly, 'If I become the candidate, I intend to present to the country a new program.'"

"This is the crux of the issue I have raised. The people, the Republican party and the delegates to the Republican convention are entitled to know what a 'new program' means. They have a right to know before, not after, the nomination of a candidate, precisely where he stands."

Meet in New York
The two met face to face today in New York, greeting each other cordially. Both were to appear at a luncheon honoring Prince Philip of Britain. The vice president and the prince were in New York for the opening of the British exposition.

As the dispute between Rockefeller and Nixon continued, Democrats watched happily from the sidelines. Former President Harry S. Truman said:

"It shouldn't hurt us any. The more they fight the better satisfied I am."

Rockefeller touched off the first fireworks Wednesday in a statement which called on Nixon to spell out his views on top issues. The governor listed his own views and was critical of parts of the Eisenhower administration's program.

Ready for Discussion
Nixon held off a reply until yesterday's news conference at Camden, N. J. Noting that Rockefeller heads one of the largest delegations to the nominating convention, the vice president said:

"I would be willing to sit down with the head of any delegation and discuss all the issues. One way to resolve the issue is for the governor to meet with me and discuss all the issues in depth." He said that if Rockefeller wants to meet before the television cameras for such a discussion in depth "I am sure it can be arranged."

Before Rockefeller turned down the idea, Nixon accepted an invitation of the American Broadcasting company to appear on its radio and television network for a discussion with the governor.

Nixon, considered a shoo-in for the Republican presidential nomination, was asked at the news conference if he would accept Rockefeller as a running mate. Rockefeller has repeatedly said he would not accept the vice presidential nomination but has stated he would accept a presidential draft.

Should Speak Out
The vice president replied "I can assure him that his repeated desire that he not be drafted as a candidate for vice president will be respected—certainly by me."

Jury Will Try Man Charged in Gun Incident

Louis E. Clark Pleads Innocent On Two Counts

A jury on July 27 will try an Appleton man charged with negligent use of a gun and carrying a concealed weapon. Louis E. Clark, 43, of 920 W. Kamps avenue, pleaded innocent of both counts Thursday after completion of a preliminary hearing into a shooting incident last month in which a woman was wounded. Major witnesses at the hearing before Municipal Judge Oscar J. Schmege were Clifford Barth, 35, of 716 W. Elsie street, whose wife, Louise, 24, was wounded; Barth's 14-year-old son, who witnessed part of the incident, and several Appleton policemen.

Social Drinking

Barth testified how he, his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Clark took part in an evening of social drinking starting Friday evening, May 20, and ending early Saturday morning when he (Barth) and Clark struggled for a gun with which Clark had threatened Barth.

The gun went off several times during the struggle, Barth testified, and one of the slugs struck Mrs. Barth.

Barth's son had told police after the shooting he saw his father wrestle the gun away from Clark, point it at Clark's head and pull the trigger. He testified at the hearing, however, that he wasn't sure at what point of the body the gun was aimed and that he didn't actually see his father pull the trigger.

The argument started, Barth testified, when Clark got "fresh" with his wife while he was out of the kitchen, changing his trousers, which had been dampened by a spilled drink. Clark went outside, he said, returned with the gun and threatened to kill him.

Oshkosh, Shawano Youths Participate On New Committee

Ann Reinke, Oshkosh, was elected secretary of the Wisconsin Youth committee for Community Youth Participation at its first meeting Saturday in Stevens Point. Archie Butz, Shawano, is also a member of the committee and one of the 10 district chairmen.

The Wisconsin Youth committee promotes youth participation in community planning and civic affairs. Growing out of the midcentury White House Conference on Children and youth, the committee is composed of 40 young people elected by youths attending statewide conferences each year.

Two Candidates for State Democratic posts spoke to members of the Outagamie county Democratic party Thursday night. From left are David Rabinovitz, Sheboygan, state Democratic treasurer and candidate for national committeeman; William H. Evans, Milwaukee, candidate for secretary of state; and county party member Mrs. Katherine Sullivan, Kaukauna.

Zimmerman, GOP Platform Blasted

No Qualifications, 'Dark Age' Policy Hit by Democrats

Secretary of State Robert C. Zimmerman and the state Republican party and its platform received a broadside blast Thursday night from two prominent state Democrats at a meeting of the Outagamie county Democratic party.

Williams H. Evans, Milwaukee attorney and candidate for secretary of state, said the man presently holding that office has become "entrenched."

"For too long the office has been held by an unqualified do-nothing inheritor as the pay window through which he has collected a handsome retainer just for the use of his father's effective political name," Evans charged.

No Qualifications Evans said the present secretary of state has none of the qualifications for the office, which, he added, is mainly an administrative one.

"His only qualification is his name, and he has been hiding behind it for the last 12 years," Evans declared.

He said Democrats must be put in the secretary of state's office and the senate if Gov. Gaylord Nelson is to have an effective progressive administration.

The Dark Ages

He added that in this election year it is not enough to say "I am a Democrat." "The thing we should offer is leadership, and we must be able to prove our qualifications."

David Rabinovitz, Sheboygan, state Democratic party treasurer and candidate for national committeeman, called the state GOP platform adopted at Milwaukee something out of dark ages that is "completely void of any consideration of the welfare of the people of Wisconsin."

He charged that the GOP has failed to meet the "burning and important issues of aid to education, better schools, new hospitals, care for the indigent and demented children, medical aid for the aged and other welfare programs."

Permanent Votes

Rabinovitz said this will haunt the Republicans in the coming election.

He added that he doesn't agree with the pollsters and newspapermen who say Republicans crossed party lines to vote in the spring primary and will cross back in November.

The votes were cast, he said, by people who cannot live on social security, cannot maintain adequate schools without aid, and by farmer and laborers who can't live under the rising cost of living.

"I prophesy that these will be permanent Democratic votes in November."

Rabinovitz stumped for the national committeeman's job, saying that the state hasn't received the recognition due to it in its role in national politics.

In a report Mrs. William Cherkasky, past president and membership chairman, paid party membership was listed as 614 in Outagamie county.

Burglar Gives Himself Up

Caught in Act By Owner of Tavern at Iola

Waupaca—A young burglar who was caught in the act of burglarizing Netzer's tavern, Iola, early Thursday morning gave himself up, seconds after making a getaway.

Erb Park Pool Opens Next Week

Registration for Swimming Classes Begins Monday

It is hoped the swimming pool in Erb park will open Tuesday or Wednesday. Some repair work is being done and a definite opening date will be announced in a few days, according to Lewis Precourt, pool manager.

The bottom of the pool has been newly painted and the paint must be thoroughly dry before water is put in. Precourt says he will probably start filling the pool today and Saturday, then begin testing the filter system.

Registration for swimming classes will be Monday and Tuesday from 10 a.m. to noon and 1 to 5 p.m., and then any week day morning from 10 a.m. to noon. There is a $1 registration fee.

Expect 1,200
Students get three lessons a week for the entire season, and have their choice of Monday, Wednesday and Friday or Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Precourt expects about 1,200 persons to register. Last year there were 1,245.

Hours when the pool will be open are from 10 a.m. to noon, 2 to 6 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m.

There will be free swimming from 10 a.m. to noon every day in the portion of the pool not used for classes.

Pool Rates
Charges for afternoon hours will be the same as last year, 5 cents for those up to 12 years old, 10 cents from 12 to 18 years and 20 cents over 18. Evening rates are 10 cents up to 18 years and 20 cents over 18.

The swimming class program for those living outside the city limits is directed by the Red Cross, and anyone interested must make arrangements at the Red Cross office.

Jury Awards Pair $17,357

DePere Motorist Found Negligent In 1956 Accident

A circuit court jury Tuesday awarded an Appleton couple $17,357.97 damages for personal injury, medical expenses and loss of wages resulting from an automobile accident Jan. 7, 1956.

Emmet Kelly and his wife, Germaine, 136 S. Walter avenue, sought damages against Darrell A. Kolb, De Pere, and the Merchants Indemnity Corporation of New York.

Judge Andrew Parnell and the jury found Kolb 100 per cent negligent.

Damages for Kelly were set at $10,000 for personal injuries, $4,720 for loss of wages and $1,453.47 for medical expenses, and for his wife, $900 for personal injuries, $284.50 for medical and $1,453.47 for loss of wages.

Kelly and his wife were driving east on Wisconsin avenue about 2:30 a. m. Jan. 7, 1956, entering the intersection with N. Oneida street. Kolb was driving south on N. Oneida street. Parnell ruled Kolb was negligent as a matter of law in that he did not stop before entering the arterial street and that he was speeding and failed to maintain proper lookout.

The Kellys were represented by Attorney James R. Joyce. Kolb was represented by a Green Bay law firm.

Socialists Stay in Office in Saskatchewan

Regina, Saskatchewan — Saskatchewan's socialist government has been returned to power, and Provincial Premier T. C. Douglas declared the vote represents a popular mandate for his plan of compulsory, prepaid medical care.

Douglas had asked voters for a majority of at least 51 per cent as a mandate for the state medical care plan. Nearly complete reports gave his cooperative commonwealth federation (CCF) only

Smoking Ban in Council Meetings Stays, Board Rules

The question of whether smoking should be permitted in city council meetings was settled—at least temporarily—by the board of public works.

It won't be permitted, the board decided.

Ald. Robert Stumpf finally asked for denial of his own motion that smoking be permitted on a 60-day trial basis.

"The order in the council meetings is terrible," Stumpf said. He added that the last council meeting had to be stopped seven times to wait for aldermen to return from a smoking break so a quorum could be formed.

Destroy Dignity

But Ald. Stumpf agreed with Ald. Homer Malmstrom that smoking in the council would destroy the dignity of the proceedings and moved for denial of his motion.

Stumpf said he thought Mayor Mitchell should talk to the aldermen about the situation, but the mayor replied it was up to the aldermen to keep their own house clean.

Stumpf said he would discuss it with the aldermen and see if a gentleman's agreement could be made whereby a quorum would remain in the chambers.

This didn't bother South, since he had set up dummy's last spade. This gave him his tenth trick for a score of 1,030 points.

It's true that West could defeat the contract by inspired defense, but even this was undeserved good luck. The cards might well be placed so that no defense would work. If West passed instead of doubling, the opponents would score only 620 points. In other words, the double cost 410 points and could hardly gain more than 100 points.

A defender can seldom afford to give such odds (about 4 to 1) that he will defeat the contract. It pays to reserve the double for the times that you expect to beat declarer two or more tricks.

Answer: Double. Our partner should have good spades for his takeout double, and you should beat one spade badly if the opponents stay where. The spade bid may be an attempt to talk you out of your best suit, and the double is the best way to expose the plot.

Too Risky to Double for One Trick

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

It's dangerous to double aggressive opponents in the hope of beating them one trick. You won't gain very much if the double succeeds, and you'll lose a tidy sum if the double goes sour.

The redouble might have warned West not to lead a spade. A player is most likely to redouble when he has strength in the doubler's suit and would be delighted to hear the opponents rescue themselves.

West should have led the queen of clubs. South would play low, and East could defeat the contract by taking the king of clubs and shifting to a diamond.

Instead, West made the safe lead of the king of spades. He shifted to the queen of clubs, but it was too late. Declarer won in dummy with the ace of clubs and returned the queen of spades, discarding the losing club from his hand.

Sets up Spade

West won with the ace of spades and led another club. South ruffed, drew two rounds of trumps, and led the 10 of spades from dummy. He discarded the low diamond from his hand, allowing West to win a third spade trick with the jack.

Space-Saving Installation of Stereo and TV

Unlike the well-mannered, seated child who is seen but not heard, well-mannered music is increasingly heard but not seen. In this room just designed for the Radio Corporation of America's Exhibition Hall in New York, hi-fi stereo and radio with their twin speakers and a TV set all show modest facings to the room, and hide the bulk of working parts in the walls.

These units are not built especially for the room, but are available for in-the-wall installation anywhere. Walls may be cut through for them, as they are here, to locate the unseen parts in a closet, in a hallway or perhaps in a garage. Or they may be built into cabinets or room dividers.

Here the large hi-fi stereo and radio housing is built into a bookcase that also holds records. Its speakers spread wide apart on the upper fireplace wall in accord with the stereo principle of sound improvement. The TV set builds into a wall on the opposite side of the room.

This way, a room can be amply furnished to be enjoyed as a concert hall and theater just as it would be no more than a comfortable conversation center. With no sound and sight space-stealers to cope with, furniture can smooth into the best arrangement for needs and the floor plan. The mural TV set especially helps arrangement — chairs may be drawn up to it as they are here, but its position doesn't demand close

Water Levels Near Normal; River Again Safe for Boaters

All gates on dams on the Fox river have been closed, Ross Plaine, corps of engineers, reported today.

The river again is back to normal and it is safe for boaters to resume activities throughout the Fox Cities, he said.

It was necessary to keep most gates open longer than usual this spring to take care of the heavy water runoff caused by spring rains.

PET DOCTOR
By A. W. Moeller, D.V.M.

Question: Which dog makes a better pet, the pedigreed or crossbreed?
Answer: Most of today's pedigreed dogs originated many years ago and for definite purposes. The Schipperke was bred to guard the boats on the Dutch canals, the Pekingese to be the lap dog of the Emperor's wives, the Dachshund to hunt badgers, etc. With the advent of the Coast Guard, a noticeable shortage of Emperors' wives and relatively few badgers around, these breeds are obviously chosen today for more practical purposes. The German Shepherd continues to be a fine watch dog, and beagle excels in rabbit-hunting and so on. In essence, if you want a dog for a particular purpose, the pure-breed will be the answer. The crossbreed combines the good and bad traits of his ancestors and what he grows into is largely a matter of luck. The mongrel is as healthy as the pure-breed and vice versa.

In Good Taste Calling Attention Bad Policy

BY EMILY POST
Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please settle this question: Today I was bawled out by my mother, whom I was driving down town, for tooting the horn of my car to attract the attention of a girl I know very well who was walking on the sidewalk. When she turned to look in my direction, I waved "hello." I can't see anything wrong in this, but my mother made quite an issue of it, saying that it was not only belittling to the girl, but also not the behavior of a properly brought up young man. I was in heavy traffic and had to drive on because of the change in traffic lights. I would very much like to know what you think about this.

Answer: You were wrong for disturbing others with unnecessary horn blowing, and what was more important, you conspicuously called attention to yourself and the girl in public, which is exactly what you should always try not to do.

Written Invitations
Dear Mrs. Post: My wedding is to be a very simple one with only about forty guests present. I am going to write my own invitations but am not sure just how these should be worded. Also, will you please tell me the correct stationery to use?

Answer: Plain white quite heavy paper marked with a house address is most suitable. You would write something like the following: "Dear Mrs. Jones, John and I are to be married at Christ Church at noon on Thursday, the tenth of May. We both want you and Mr. Jones to come to the church and afterward to breakfast at the Ritz. Hoping so much that you can come. Affectionately, Helen Greene."

Omit Salad Fork
Dear Mrs. Post: When serving salad with the main course, but on a separate plate, is it necessary to provide a salad fork, or may the salad be eaten with the dinner fork? I think it is much more practical to eat both meat and salad with the dinner fork, rather than switch from one to the other.

Answer: While it is proper to provide two forks, I agree with you that when served with the meat course, a separate salad fork is entirely unnecessary and may be omitted.

Your Problems Single Gal Pens Words to Wives, Offers to Accept Wedded Bliss

BY ANN LANDERS
DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please print this letter, if space permits, and dedicate it to the woman who signed herself "The Wife". I hope all wives who are dissatisfied with the men they married will take a close look, too.

Dear "Wife": Ann Landers
May I have your husband? I'd love to take him off your hands, even with his bad table manners, his sloppy way of leaving clothes on the floor, and the bum jokes he tells. I'm 35 and I can't seem to get a man. I'm a career woman and although I put on a bad, big act of "loving my independence", deep inside I'm desperately lonely.

I long to have a man who will come home to me at night. He won't have to tell me he loves me. Just having him home will be proof enough. He won't even have to make conversation. If he's too tired to talk, I'll understand. If he's grumpy, I'll know he had a bad day at the office.

And if you're fed up with your children, as so many people seem to be these days, I'll take them, too. — Lonely

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You never got a letter like this before. I am 15, blond and popular. My mother is nagging me out of my mind because she wants me to go steady. I don't want to go steady for all the reasons you have listed so often in your column.

I agree with you that a young girl misses a lot when she ties herself down to one fellow in high school. Also, it's true as you have said that when kids go steady they get to thinking they own each other and this can be an and although I put on a bad, big act of "loving my independence", deep inside I'm desperately lonely.

My mother has different ideas. She was born in the old country so maybe this accounts for it. Anyway she claims a young girl should pick a nice, respectable boy, and go only with him. She says girls who go with different schools but we know a lot of the same kids. America is the only country where this goes on and that Americans have more divorces than anybody. Is she right? What shall I tell her? — Hey-Tee

Dear Hey-Tee: I am sure your mother wants what in her opinion is best for you, but in this case I think she is mistaken.

All the reasons you listed for not wanting to go steady are valid.

Your mother is correct about the high divorce rate in America, but one of the major reasons is the increasing number of teenage marriages — which is the result of going steady at an early age. You may also tell your mother that divorces are easier to get in America than in most countries.

DEAR ANN: To make a long story short I am a liar. I told a real cute girl I was a freshman two years ago because I wanted to be a big man.

Now I'm just a freshman and she's a smart sophomore. I live in fear someone will sell me out. We go to different schools but we know a lot of the same kids.

Would it be best to tell her I was sick and missed a year, or should I tell her I went to Europe for a year which set me back? The truth is, I'm right where I ought to be. Please help me. — Big Mouth

Dear Big Mouth: You're right where you ought to be all right — behind the eight-ball. The trouble with a lie is you have to tell ten more to cover it up. Come clean — the sooner the better — and no more fibbing.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

FHA Girls Share Ideas, Projects During 15th State Convention

BY KATHY BEARDON
Post-Crescent Society Editor

Green Lake — The American Baptist assembly grounds in Green Lake were ablaze in greens and bright spring flowers and the 850 Future Homemakers of America here attending their 15th annual state convention were fresh with ideas and suggestions to improve and add sparkle to their chapters.

"FHA in Focus" was the theme of the 3-day convention. Boating, swimming, hiking and sporting activities were on the agenda as well as meetings and conferences.

The seven general assemblies held in Pillsbury hall ranged in subjects from national and international activities to food.

Bell Ringers

Wednesday afternoon panelists from 16 chapters of the 231 represented held a bell ringer session where the girls shared ideas on activities which sparked or improved their chapter in the last year.

The Westfield chapter carried on a door to door drive for blood donors so its county wouldn't lose its blood bank. The Middleton chapter made its executive council meetings function better and the young homemakers from Ladysmith arranged a daddy-date night at their school.

Campaign to get people out to vote on a swimming pool referendum, big sister projects and activities for FHA week also were outlined.

The group's major objective is learning to understand neighbors at home and abroad during Wednesday evening's session panelists representing 25 chapters explained their national projects and international activities.

"We like to have sophomore or junior girls attending the state convention," commented Miss Kathryn Gill, state FHA adviser, "for the girls can go back to their respective chapters and put some of the ideas they learned to work."

Goals of the convention were to share ideas for chapter activities, to improve chapter programs of work, to strengthen personal and spiritual values, and to develop qualities of leadership and responsibility.

Each chapter sent two voting delegates and two alternates, accompanied by an adult.

Represent County

Eighteen girls from Outagamie county, which is in dis-

Point, won $100 scholarships for outstanding work in home economics.

Wisconsin homemaker degree recipients for high achievement included Joan Winch, Karen Anding and Margaret Ann Bowden, all of Arena; Jane Thiede and Joyce Link, Columbus; Judy Kaye Oelhafen, Kewaskum; Donna J. Kemmel, Mayville; Carole Weber, Mondovi; Carolyn Spargo, Mineral Point; Darlene Jeckle, Preble; Charlotte Ann Skarda, Diana Bubolz, Diann Skarda and Joanne Zahorik, all of Reedsville; Beverly Grall and Diane Kohlbeck, Valders; Judy Rodgers, Westfield; and Suzanne Moilien, Westby.

Install Officers

Miss Bonnie Nelson, New Richmond, was installed as president Thursday. Officers of District 4 are Dorothy Hagen, Wittenberg, vice president; Megan David, Preble, editor; Ruth Brownlow, Wild Rose, parliamentarian; Diana Bubolz, Reedsville, program of work chairman, and Patricia Casper, New Holstein, historian.

Approximately 1,000 people were served at the white dress dinner Thursday evening. The girls abandoned the filmy white formals of previous years to more informal attire consisting of a white dress with red accents. Red and white are the group's colors and were much in evidence Thursday afternoon as the girls began preparing for their biggest event, the dress-up dinner.

Invite Parents

Parents and school administrators of the award winners were invited. District 3 Vice President Suzanne Moilien presented the awards in the absence of Romona Attenberger, retiring state president, who was being graduated from Waupun High school. Miss Delores Weck, Madison, who has directed the FHA chorus since its beginning six years ago, and Mrs. Marie Brickner, Independence, a teacher and adviser to state officers, were given honorary memberships.

Young Girls Work for Leadership

Green Lake — What is FHA? Who can belong? These questions were answered Thursday by Miss Christine Nickel, Madison, assistant state FHA adviser.

FHA stands for Future Homemakers of America and it is a national organization composed of girls in junior and senior high school. The only membership requirement is that the girls have at least one semester of home economics during their high school career.

The group meets throughout the school year during activity periods, noon hour and after school. The program objective is to teach girls not only homemaking but qualities of leadership and responsibility.

During a session with representatives of Outagamie county, the young homemakers outlined their various projects and activities which keep them busy throughout the year.

The Seymour chapter has sold stationery and pencils and conducted a style show and fair to raise money for its community service projects. Gifts to the Golden Age home in New London were donated by the New London chapter, which used the proceeds raised from candy and carnal apple sales.

Hortonville, Bear Creek and Shiocton chapters also were in the marketing business and sold everything from pencils for homecoming to candy at Christmas time. The chapters also sponsored money raising dances during the school year.

At the meetings, the girls have been working on the state project, "Food for the Shrewd," and will continue the project next year.

Highlight Shadows

A lovely asks: What can be done to conceal dark circles and fine lines under the eyes? For the millions of women with the problem, this answer: Use an undereye make-up stick. Owing to their emollient oils and high luminosity, new sticks act like a stop sign on the dark circles of fatigue and the lines of maturity. Moreover, they are designed for daytime as well as evening wear.

Cased like a lipstick, undereye make-up is similarly applied. It is available in light, medium and dark flesh tones. The effective shade to use is the next lightest one to your powder base.

You simply stroke it on in half-moons that just overlay your circles, and then blend it with light taps of the fingertips. Thereafter, you apply your powder base as usual, being careful to blend it extra smoothly in the circle areas. Presto, the skin looks fresh and smooth!

In case you wonder how and why undereye make-up works — the principle is the same one used to subtract years from the appearance of screen and TV stars. It is called "highlighting the shadows." And the result to the eye is the outlook of youth.

Lawrence Says Rockefeller's Statement May Damage GOP

Loses Chance at Nomination by Attack on Ike

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — Gov. Rockefeller has delivered the most scathing attack against the Eisenhower administration that has come from any Republican of prominence. Just how he thinks the Republican party can win the next election by a virtual repudiation of the Eisenhower leadership will puzzle anyone who really understands the rudiments of American politics.

Any candidate who repudiates his own party's record cannot win a national election. A party split wide open loses its effectiveness.

Mr. Rockefeller assails the administration's record on national defense and other issues, and takes the viewpoint which several Democratic party critics have repeatedly expressed. This will not win delegates for the New York governor at the national convention. If he were intent on bringing about the defeat of his own party in 1960, he could not have chosen a better way. He may have even disqualified himself as a party nominee in 1964 because the cleavage he will have made, if the Republicans are defeated this year, will be blamed on the statement he issued Wednesday.

Withdrew From Race
Gov. Rockefeller's statement sounds as if it were pressed upon him by advisers who really don't understand practical politics. The Rockefeller pronouncement is a call for disunity and not harmony in the Republican party.

Mr. Rockefeller says he has waited for the vice president to express his views but, oddly enough, the New York governor formally withdrew from the presidential race and relused to go before the voters in various state primaries, while Mr. Nixon did participate in all the primary elections. The vice president, moreover, has gone before the people to ask them to uphold the Eisenhower administration's record and policies.

Should Mr. Nixon speak out on new policies before he is the party nominee and before the delegates have selected a committee to write the national Republican platform? Mr. Rockefeller evidently believes that Mr. Nixon is already the leader of the Republican party and should write the platform. This is not the concept of an "open convention" which political parties usually like to champion.

"Nothing Like It"
Rockefeller seems to consider Mr. Nixon already the nominee and that the New York governor may want to disassociate himself from the coming campaign. If Mr. Nixon does express views contrary to those of Mr. Rockefeller and wins the nomination, the New York governor would have to eat his own words should he do any campaigning for the party nominee. Or does it mean that he intends to remain aloof from the campaign and let the Republicans fight their own battles because they do not accept his views? Questions like these were being asked in Washington today by political folks who stood aghast at the Rockefeller statement. Nothing like it has been issued since former President Theodore Roosevelt broke with President William Howard Taft in 1912 and brought about the defeat of the Republican party.

Much of the Rockefeller statement is given over to generalities about "national purpose." It is couched in the same vague language that Adlai Stevenson and the "egg-head" philosophers repeated, it is use.

1960 Issue
The issue in 1960 will be whether the Republican administration deserves a vote of confidence and whether Vice President Nixon has been sufficiently experienced in the making of Eisenhower policies to carry them forward. Republican speakers will be defending the Eisenhower record. If that record has not won the approval of the voters, no Republican candidate can expect to win by espousing the policies and proposals of the opposition party.

Two things stand out clearly.

Nuns of the Area Had the opportunity to tour the new $206,000 convent at Holy Name of Jesus parish, Kimberly, after official blessing and dedication ceremonies were held. Shown are a few of the visiting sisters kneeling in the chapel of the convent.

ly. Gov. Rockefeller has forfeited any chance to be the Republican nominee for president or vice president this year. He may have even forfeited his chance to be the presidential nominee in 1964 if Vice President Nixon is defeated this year.

To Your Good Health Sciatica Painful, Necessary That Basic Cause be Treated

By Joseph G. Molner M. D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is there a cure for sciatica? Are there many types of it? How long does it last?—C.C."

You pronounce sciatica a sigh-at-kuh, which I mention only for the benefit of those who don't have it. Those who do have this trouble learn soon enough to pronounce it.

It is a pain in the back of the leg and gets its name because of the sciatic nerve which runs through the thigh. Believe me, the pain can be agonizing, and even when comparatively mild it can make life miserable because sometimes it continues for considerable periods without much let-up.

The nerve branches out from the lower portion of the spinal column, and the trouble may originate there, or it may be some irritation of the nerve farther along its course.

Some of Causes

For example, extensive arthritis of the spine, with the overlapping edges of the vertebrae pinching the nerve, can be a cause. So can a ruptured disc, or even a tumor in the spine.

Or chronic infections can irritate the nerve—infections which may focus in teeth, prostate, rectal area or wherever.

Some metabolic diseases can cause neuritis of this type—for after all, that is what sciatica is: Irritation, or pinching, or neuritis or neuralgia.

Favor Vocational Use for Kimberly Jr. High Building

Council, 2 Education Boards Agree on Plan for Fall 1961

Neenah — Council members at an informal session Thursday night favored the proposed use by the Kimberly Junior High School worked out by the board of education and the vocational school board.

Basically, these plans are to open Kimberly Junior high to the Vocational school for use of the home economics sewing and cook rooms on the ground floor and of six classrooms on the top floor plus the auditorium.

Public school administrative offices, such as that of Miss Mary Willits, element- ary supervisor, Dr. Donald Scott, curriculum director, and possibly eventually that of Supt. of Schools Harold B. Men-

Also occupying that building may be Robert Gruetzman, orchestra director, and Earl Brien, supervisor of properties, whose shop also may be transferred to the rooms now used by the junior high shop classes. Specific details still are to be worked out.

The changes will be after the new junior high school is opened in fall, 1961. Members of both boards meet with the council. The council's informal approval was unanimous.

Speak to Council
Paul Groth, board of education president, and James P. Keating, president of the vocational school board, outlined the basic plans agreed upon by the two boards and Dan Danielson, vocational school director, showed charts outlining the utilization of the rooms.

Groth pointed out it has become periodically necessary for the board of education to find rooms in which classes are to be held both for the public schools and vocational school. The increasing public school enrollment has made it necessary to curtail facilities used by the vocational school.

The vocational school has been asked in recent years Turn to Page 2, Col. 4

Boys' Brigade to Add 3rd Floor to Building

New Section to be Devoted To Physical Fitness Program

Neenah — Addition of a original building, will construct the addition.

Room for 200 More
With the addition, the Boys' Brigade building will be able to handle 200 more boys than now.

Some of the equipment will come from money earned by the selling of Christmas wreaths.

The third floor will contain an entrance hall, lockers, a small equipment room, a small washroom facility and one large room which can be divided into three smaller rooms through the use of folding partitions. This will enable the separation of beginning from advanced activities.

However, the Twin City communities are growing and with it the demand for more schools, playgrounds and more floor space for organizations like the Boys' Brigade.

537 on Rolls
When the present building was dedicated in January of 1957 there were 339 boys on the rolls. Today there are 537 boys with indications of a continued growth, the directors continued.

The Brigade leaders have experimented over the last season with a physical fitness program that has proven its value and demands additional space. The directors of the Boys' Brigade association at the quarterly meeting in April voted to add a third floor to the Columbian avenue wing at once, devoted to the expanded physical fitness program and equipment.

4 Lines Shape Future, Says OSC Speaker

Dr. Harrington Addresses Largest Graduating Class

Oshkosh — Four lines that will shape the pattern of the future were named by Dr. Fred Harrington, University of Wisconsin vice president in charge of academic affairs, at the Oshkosh State college 86th commencement exercises, this morning.

"The pattern of the future is unmistakable. It is a pattern that is more good than bad."

"The future of your lives will see a great urban growth," he told the largest graduating class in OSC history. "The cities have created our great country, yet they are still not an attractive place in which to live. It will be your job to see that the urban America develops in the democratic tradition as well as did our urban past."

There will be increased improvements in science and technology, he said, adding he hopes these improvements will be joined with the social sciences and humanities. It is comforting to see the growing need to tie science and

168 in First Day Blood Center Needs 100 Pints for Quota

Neenah — If 100 pints of blood are collected today, the Red Cross bloodmobile's June visit to the Twin Cities will have reached its quota.

The bloodmobile, set up in First Presbyterian church

Ed Tollefson, publicity chairman, said only 165 of 256 scheduled donors kept their appointments Thursday. Thirty of the 165 scheduled donors who did report were rejected because of medical reasons. However, 33 walk-in donors also gave blood.

Blood collected during bloodmobile visits is credited to the local blood bank, which provides blood without cost (except for administration) to Twin Cities residents. During the first four months of this year, 429 pints of blood collected through bloodmobile visits were administered in Theda Clark Memorial hospital.

Leadership
As his fourth forecast of the future, Dr. Harrington said, "you will see the United States in an even more important role of leadership than today."

"Everywhere one goes, one finds Americans. Not only Americans traveling, but Americans at work." Americans abroad have made mistakes, some that are colossal, unbelievable, he said. The speaker, who recently returned from a 2-month trip abroad, said, "If I was impressed by one single point, it was that we have abroad a great many Americans who are doing an extraordinary Neenah — Visitors to the Bergstrom Art center during the exhibit of water colors by the late Nile J. Behncke, Oshkosh picked "Rural Free Delivery" as the painting they wanted the museum to purchase.

Each visitor was asked to record his choice for an addition to the permanent collection of the art center. Of the 275 votes cast, the majority were for "Rural Free Delivery."

The winning picture, a typical Wisconsin winter scene, is presently hanging in the east gallery of the art center. The current exhibition of graphics from the Michigan Artists Gallery group will be shown through June 23. The art center is open from 1 to 6 p.m. each Wednesday, Thursday, Saturday and Sunday.

Dr. Roger E. Guiles, who is completing his first year as president of Oshkosh State college, told the class, "Never before has there been such a demand for excellence. It is the responsibility of educated men and women to improve the moral climate in which we live," he charged. "We need to work for an intellectual renaissance," Dr. Guiles urged. In the future, the strength of the nation will be measured in competition with other nations not so much in the number of bombs we have, but it will depend more and more upon our intellectual strength, he said.

"It is excellence that must light the path ahead. Let me urge you to work, not for the sake of working, but for the attainment of your goals. Enjoy your work, for you are working to attain goals that are far greater than yourselves," he concluded.

Among those introduced at the opening of the commencement exercises were graduates of the class of 1910: Mrs. Gordon McIntyre, Appleton state college regent; Lewis Magnusen, former regent, Carl Steiger, chairman of the University of Wisconsin board of regents, and Mrs. Forrest Polk, wife of the former Oshkosh State college president.

Studies Needs

The vocational school board in recent months has been studying its needs and physical space to accommodate its program into a single building. For years it has been using the home economics rooms at the Kimberly Junior High school and has furnished that facility rather completely.

The vocational school still will use some of the facilities of the high school for its evening adult program, such as the typing rooms, woodwork, machine shop, old gymnasium and auditorium for its travel lectures.

Use of six classrooms at the Kimberly Junior High starting in the fall of 1961 will relieve the Roosevelt school, Hoover school, Red Cross office and YWCA of the daytime classes now held at those places.

More High School Space

It also will give the high school two more classrooms, the room now used for the vocational school office and ne classroom. Moving public school administrators to the present Kimberly school will open up a room at the Washington school now used by Miss

Philippine Food Blends East, West

Manila — Philippine food, like Philippine culture, is a blend of East and West. In many of the so-called native dishes here, it's easy to detect some Spanish, Chinese, American, German, French, Indian or Japanese flavor. The first three are probably the most dominant.

Hamburgers have found a home in the Philippines. So have ham and eggs for breakfast, southern fried chicken for lunch and roast beef for dinner.

On the Oriental side, there's sweet-sour sauce which Filipinos like to serve with pork or fish dishes. It's as Chinese as a mandarin.

"Pancit"

Filipinos also have a dish called "Pancit" which was lifted right out of a Chinese cookbook. It has a noodle base (either sauteed or served in a soup) with chopped pork, chicken, liver and vegetables thrown in. Housewives add chopped hardboiled eggs and ground nuts. Even Chinese say this version tastes better.

Chop suey is known the world over. The Filipino recipe for it calls for either pork, chicken or beef, with liberal helpings of shrimp, bits of fried chicken and chicken giblets.

Other Philippine dishes are as native to the Spanish plains as they are to this country.

Boiled Rice

Boiled rice is a staple here. When peas, olives, tomatoes and chopped sausage are added, it becomes "arroz a la Valenciana" (after Valencia in Spain).

Come fiesta time in any Filipino town, tables are loaded with "fritada" — fish, beef or chicken fried and served with a sauce made of tomatoes, potatoes and pepper plus bread crumbs to thicken it. Another dish of Spanish origin.

Mix egg yolk, milk and sugar, steam or bake the mixture and you get a custard. Top it with caramel sauce and you get what the Spanish call "leche flan." It goes by the same name here.

The moral: A foreigner can come to this country and feel as though he never left home — or at least his dining room.

Neenah — At the bi-monthly meeting of H. J. Lewis Relief corps at the armory Thursday evening, it was announced that Mrs. Claude Cash will be color bearer at the Relief corps encampment at Madison June 12, 13 and 14.

New Auto Policy Not Cancellable

BY SYLVIA PORTER

A fear which haunts millions of us who drive cars is that if we or any member of our household have an accident while driving, our insurance company may summarily cancel our liability policy. We dread being left either without imperactive protection or with a costly, lifetime black mark against our records.

A resentment deeply felt by millions of us who have had perfect or near perfect driving records is against being compelled to pay ever-rising auto insurance premiums because of accidents incurred by stupid or reckless drivers. We feel strongly that safe drivers should be rewarded, bad drivers should be penalized.

Revolutionary steps are now being taken to erase the fear of sudden cancellation, to minimize the resentment caused by auto accidents in involving others.

Pioneer Policy

For the first time in the history of automobile insurance, a policy is being introduced which cannot be cancelled by the insurance company for up to five years — no matter how awful the driver's record.

Simultaneously, the policy will reward safe drivers with premium reductions, slap surcharges on drivers who have had multiple accidents.

Allstate Insurance company, the world's largest stock insurer of autos, with more than 4 million auto policies currently in force, is the company pioneering in this insurance protection.

It introduced the new policy into New York state after having given it a preliminary testing last month in its home state of Illinois and in Ohio.

Expects More

"There's not much doubt that if successful here the policy will be extended through the rest of the country," said Robert Leys, vice president of Allstate, when I interviewed him this week. And while Leys naturally refused to guess whether other insurance companies would follow, there also is not much doubt that he expects this in time. Allstate has been copied before on pioneering moves — such as special premium discounts for compact cars and for young drivers successfully completing approved driver training courses.

If you've never feared cancellation of your auto policy because of accident, you're

Neenah, Menasha Jr. Legion Clubs Face 1st League Foes

Mayville '9' Makes Visit To NHS Field

Neenah — Neenah marks its return to Junior Legion league baseball (after an absence of two years) with a Fox River Valley Junior Legion league contest against Mayville at 2 p.m. Saturday at the Neenah High school athletic field.

Neenah, which had a state championship team in the early thirties, was absent from Legion baseball circles for a number of years until 1952. Both Neenah and Menasha had teams through 1955 and the Hawley - Dieckhoff post was the lone Twin City representative for the next two years.

Neenah dropped its baseball program in 1958 and the last two years several Neenah players played with the Menasha entry.

Neenah High Players — This year's squad, coached by Harry Miller, will consist mainly of players who helped the Rockets to a fine record this spring.

Bill Fahrenkrug or Mory Handler will start on the mound. Tom Hensen, a third hurler, is bothered by a sore arm.

Dan Zehner or Dan Murphy will catch with Jim Saubert at first base; Don Althaus, second base; John Larson or Dick Wiesner, shortstop; Fran Goetz or Rick Getzow, third base. The outfielders will be chosen from Leonard Winkelman, George Steffensen, Larry Tesch and the excess pitchers.

Reaches Finals — Palmer Sell and George Goetz, who played with Menasha last year, are over the age limit.

Little is known of the Mayville strength but its high school team, like Neenah, got all the way to the sectional finals before it was defeated 3-1 by Milwaukee Boys Tech. The downstaters usually have a formidable team.

The last Neenah team in 1957, coached by Tom Collins had a 14-5 record.

Meet Expected to Draw Over 125

Oshkosh — More than 125 players are expected for the third annual Fox Valley open tennis meet which will be held here June 17-19.

The meet is sponsored by the Oshkosh Tennis club and sanctioned by the Wisconsin Tennis association and United States Lawn Tennis association.

Competition is scheduled in singles in four age brackets for both boys and girls. Divisions are 11, 13, 15 and 18. There also will be doubles for the 15 and 18 age groups.

The tournament will be played at the Menominee and Webster Stanley park courts. Last year it drew over 120 contestants.

Last year's winners were "Chuck" Bleckinger, Oshkosh, 18 and under; Dan Bleckinger, Oshkosh, 13 and under; Craig Adelman, Milwaukee, 15 and under; Barbara Barney, Milwaukee, 13 and under; Barbara Mueller, Thiensville, 15 and under; Roxy Fuller, La Crosse, 18 and under; Dick Hall, Manitowish, and Dick Wilson, Neenah, 18 and under doubles; and Dave Kahlitz - Dean Eisner, Manitowish, 13 and under doubles.

Collect $300 For Chile Relief

A total of $300 has been received by the Outagamie County Red Cross chapter for relief of the victims of the Chilean earthquakes and tidal waves.

Outagamie county contributions to date have come from business and industrial firms, individuals, and the Catholic church of Black Creek.

Rhyme-a-Line Game Good For Family or Party Fun

BY CAPPY DICK

Next time you have a party, play this game which I call "Rhyme a Line." Try it out on your family.

You will need a sheet of paper and a pencil. The players sit around the table. Have the first player take the paper and pencil and at the top of the sheet secretly write one line of a poem — an original one, if he can do it, although it may be a line from any well-known poem. He must then fold the paper over (Figure 1) to hide what he has written. However, as a clue for the other players he writes at the bottom of the sheet a word which rhymes with the last word of his line as in Figure 1.

He now passes the paper to

Write rhyming line, then fold paper.

Look and Learn

BY A. C. GORDON

1. What is a native of each of these places called: (a) Panama; (b) Iraq; (c) Naples; (d) Afghanistan; (e) Isle of Man?

2. Who was the only boxer to hold three world championships simultaneously?

3. Can you supply the two lines following these famous couplets: "Woodman, spare that tree! Touch not a single bough!"

4. What U. S. state leads in magnitude of manufacturing establishments, number of wage earners employed, amount of wages paid, cost of materials used, and value of products?

5. Who, in the Bible, was credited with having composed more than a thousand songs?

the next player who must secretly write a line ending in a word that rhymes with the word the first player wrote at the bottom of the sheet (see Figure 1 again where "blue" rhymes with "do," written at the bottom by the first player).

The second player folds the paper over to hide his line and passes it to the third player. The third player must also secretly write a line ending with a word rhyming with "do." This continues from player to player, each writing a line rhyming with "do" and folding the paper over. When the paper finally reaches the player who wrote the first line, he must open it and read all the lines. The fun will come in hearing the crazy mixture of ideas that make up the poem.

After the first paper has been read, start another one around the circle and make a new poem.

'House of the Week'

Formula for Instant Vacation Home

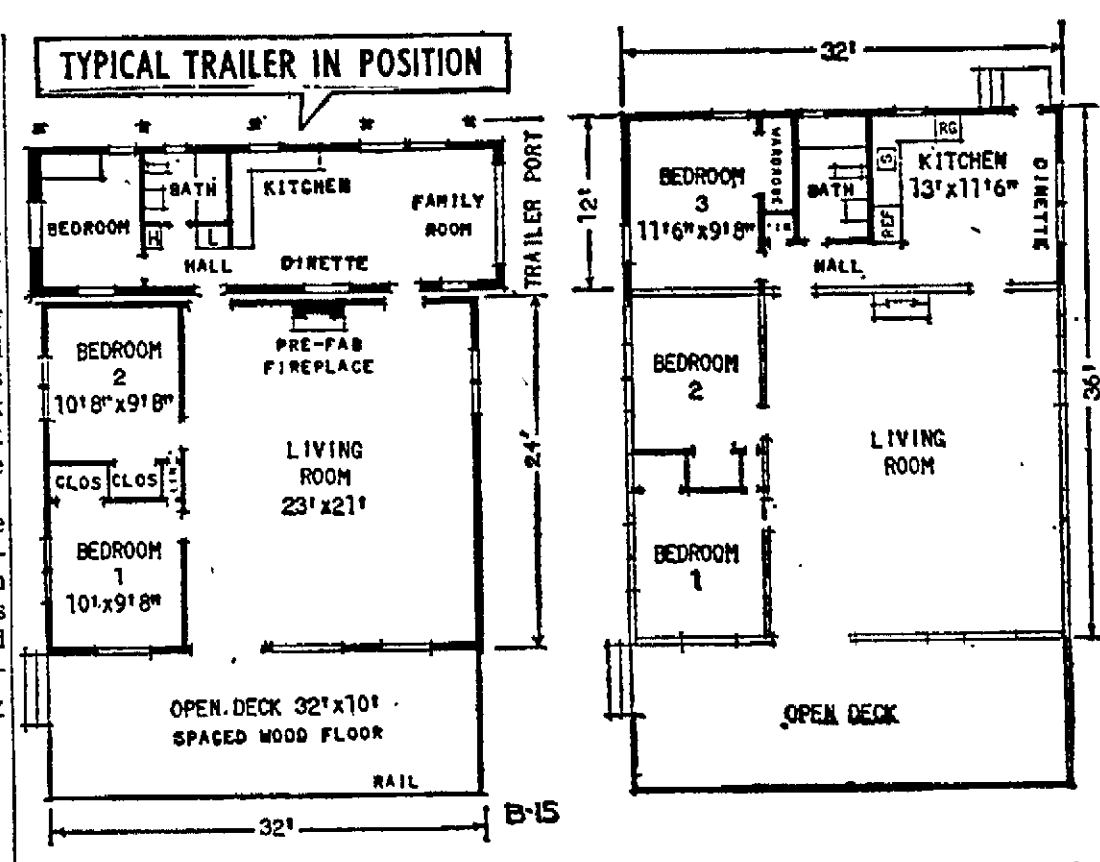

BY DAVID L. BOWEN

How would you like to be living in your own summer home by the Fourth of July?

Impossible you say? Well, it could easily be done if you already own vacation property and it just might be done even if you start from scratch.

The remarkable feature of the vacation home designed by Architect Lester Cohen as B-15 in the House of the Week series is that you can start living on the site before ground is broken.

You can do this because the B-15 summer house is engineered for construction in stages with a house trailer as its service core. At the end of the first stage, the struc-

B-15 Statistics

This unique vacation home is designed for construction in stages, the first one involving use of a housetrailer to provide kitchen and bath core.

In the first stage, the permanent structure has a big living room and two bedrooms in 768 sq. ft of floor space, plus an open deck at front.

In the second stage, the area originally occupied by the trailer is converted to conventional kitchen, bath and bedroom space, increasing living area to 1,152 sq. ft.

ture offers a big, dramatic living room with open porch in front, two bedrooms, and a "trailer port" into which a house trailer can be pulled to provide kitchen, bath, and an additional bedroom.

In the second stage either next year or five years from now, the trailer port can be enclosed to make room for a conventional kitchen, bath and bedroom.

Since the trailer contains kitchen and bath facilities—which are major building expenses in a small home—use of the mobile unit holds down original cost of the permanent structure. It also puts you and your family right on the site while construction is under way, which may make it feasible for you to serve as your own subcontractor.

To start things off, you obviously have to get hold of a house trailer. This may not present as many problems as you expect, however. Architect Cohen reports there is a lively market in trailers both new and used. His investigation indicates they depreciate relatively slowly, so that a family could expect to get much of its money out after owning one for several years. Trailers also may be rented for all or parts of a summer in many parts of the country. To avoid the investment, a unit could be rented for as many summers as necessary to reach the final stage in development of the summer house.

B-15 is designed with a port that will easily accommodate a trailer with typical dimensions of 8 by 34 feet. A longer unit would simply extend a little farther at each end. The two doors of the trailer are aligned with the doors of the permanent house and simple viewings wherever you build. Housewives will note that

Because of its generous size, the living room could always provide additional sleeping space when overnight guests become numerous.

Rally Halted, Prices Mixed

Fractional Gains, Losses in Quiet Trading Session

New York — The stock market's sensational rally of this week stalled today with trading slack and prices mixed early this afternoon.

Gains and losses of fractions to about a point ruled among key stocks. The higher-priced blue chips, whose gains Thursday raised popular market averages despite general irregularity, were short by profit taking today.

Pre-weekend caution was heightened by concern over possible international developments in the next two days.

Rails came back slightly but their failure of Thursday to top the March recovery high and thus "confirm" the rise of industrial was construed by Wall Street chartists as an unfavorable sign.

Most major groups were either narrowly mixed or slightly changed on balance.

DuPont dropped about a point of Thursday's 6 1/2 point rise and Eastman Kodak lost about 2 of the previous session's gain of 5 1/2. International Business Machines was down more than 4.

Zenith gained more than 2 and Texas Instruments lost more than 2.

Ford, down more than a point was the worst loser in an irregular motor section.

Southern Railway gained around a point.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off .88 at 655.56.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was unchanged at 224.00 with the industrials down .20.

Corporate and government bonds advanced.

10 Motorists in Traffic Court on Various Charges

Ten motorists were in municipal court today on traffic charges—eight of them for speeding.

Kenneth L. Hoffman, 20, route 3, New London, was fined $25 for inattentive driving. He was arrested Wednesday in the 500 block of W. Wisconsin avenue.

John J. Schevelbein, 18, of 2506 N. Oneida street, was arraigned for failing to stop at a stop sign. His license was revoked for 30 days.

Fined for speeding were: Dennis M. Olejniczak, 21, 131 S. Oneida street, $10; Ralph K. Neumann, 19, of 226 S. Perkins street, $10; John C. Kramer, 18, of route 1, Menasha, $10; James W. Jorgensen, 18, of 1813 W. Commercial street, $10; Laurel M. Otardour, 22, of Oshkosh, $15; Steven A. Gerhardt, 16, of Appleton, license revoked 30 days; Pat B. Gauthier, 20, Adams, $10.

New York — Businessmen have had a fair share of sobering reports and statistics to swallow in the last two months. But today they have some pleasant ones for a change.

These may not balance out the output slowdowns in some industries, the layoffs here and there, the price weaknesses and deadlier competition, the rising costs of production and cutting of profit margins.

But they do allay somewhat the fears of the timorous. They add up to a fairly healthy outlook for the weeks ahead. The new and more pleasant reports are:

1. The best rally in the stock market for some time — and sparked by investors turning to the more seasoned stocks of the old-line and stable industries.
2. Evidence that the business slowdown has had but little effect on long range business planning for plant and equipment spending.
3. Continuing steady spending by consumers without either a splurge set off by inflation fears or a purse tightening prompted by recession doubts.
4. A strong revival in U.S. exports after two years of world trade problems that could have threatened the dollar's position.

2-Year Deficit

This export surplus pleases both the countless companies that sell abroad and the nation's money managers who have been disturbed by the loss of gold due to a 2-year deficit in our balance of payments.

In the first four months of the year our merchandise exports ran 22 per cent ahead of the like 1959 period. Imports went up by only 6 per cent, in contrast to their steeper climb a year ago.

The change has given this country a surplus of exports over imports so far this year of 1 1/2 billion dollars, more than three times that of a year ago. The big surplus is needed to offset the other U. S. payments abroad other than for imports — that is, for foreign aid, for travel, for maintaining military bases, for private investments.

The total payments exceeded income by nearly 3 1/2 billion dollars in 1958 and by 3 1/2 billion dollars in 1959.

This year's good export gain, especially in April, is leading some Washington observers to revise their earlier predictions. There's a chance now that total commercial exports may rise to around $19 billion, and imports may be around $15 1/2 billion, or less than first thought. The resulting surplus would help offset the other forms of American dollar spending abroad.

Booster for Economy

As a booster for the economy at home, the government still counts heavily on business capital spending. At the first of the year the securities and exchange commission and the department of commerce estimated such spending as reaching $37 billion.

Since then the slide off in total industrial output, and the trend of customers to hold down inventories rather than build them up, have put a damper on some business expansion plans. But not much of one.

The government agency now predict that 1960 plant and equipment spending will exceed $36 1/2 billion, just $150 million short of 1957's record of 37 billion, and nearly 4 1/2 billion above last year's figure.

The pleasant pronouncements also extend to one of the industries hit by the spring slowdown. Roger M. Blough, chairman of U. S. Steel, thinks steel output won't fall much lower than at present and will turn up again in August.

More than $37,000 will be put into repairs and improvements on the Lawrence college campus this summer, Harlan S. Kirk, business manager, has announced.

The largest project will be in Russell Sage hall, where the slate roof will be repaired, new railings installed, all windows weatherstripped, the interior painted and new electrical installations made.

At Brokaw hall, all the radiators in the rooms will be replaced, floors repaired, and a new transformer and underground power line installed.

Repairs are also scheduled for the Alexander gymnasium, science hall, the heating plant, Memorial union and Main hall. In the latter, a signal system will be installed between the central faculty office and the professors' private studies and all classrooms will be painted.

Acreage Reduced

Spring Rains Delay Pea Planting; Cannery Still Look for Good Crop

Unusual spring rains so delayed planting that canning pea acreage in the state has been reduced to the lowest volume in 20 years, the Wisconsin Cannery association says.

This is not entirely true in the Fox Cities area.

Calumet and Outagamie county cannery report varied results because of weather conditions.

In Calumet county the Calumet Dutch Canning company at Brillion reported 100 per cent of its anticipated 900 acres planted. Some later varieties were substituted for the early varieties which should have been planted.

Planting Behind

Most planting operations were 10 days to two weeks behind throughout the Fox Cities areas.

The Hilbert branch of the Valders Canning company also planted 100 per cent of its acreage, however, its acreage since 1959 has been only one half of its production potential.

A. T. Hyske Canning company, New Holstein, suffered a 25 per cent loss of an anticipated 400 acres of early peas. The company expects to plant the end of the week.

Outagamie county cannery didn't have as rosy a story.

Percy Ellis, superintendent of the Seymour Canning company, said the plant was 30 per cent below its total acreage. The acreage that was planted was put into late and early varieties.

Wet Conditions

The wet field conditions caused some of the cut back, but the necessity of making room for beans also forced the cut back, he said.

No cannery cancelled contracts with growers. Any acreage dropped was done through

Migrant Workers

Chilton — The Wisconsin Sugar Beet growers and the Menominee Sugar company have arranged for several families of migrant workers in the county. These families are anxious to go to work on any farm. They work by the day and may be contacted at the Kolbe camp located on County Trunk F, east of Gravesville. Contacts also may be made through Robert Schwarz, Chilton, fieldman for the sugar company.

mutual agreement with company and grower because fields were impossible to plant.

Stokely - Van Camp Canning company, Appleton, hopes to get about 80 or 90 per cent of its anticipated 2,000 acres of peas in. Some 1,000 acres are now in. If favorable weather conditions continue remaining acreage will be in by the end of next week. V. E. Quakenbush, manager, said.

Dates Moved

Pea harvesting normally starts around June 20 and goes to the third or fourth week of July. All canning dates are being moved back because of the late planting. Weather now determines the success or failure of a crop. Hot dry weather in July could hurt pea quality. Things looked bad for Fox Valley Canning company, Hortonville, until this week, Don Qualmann, chief fieldman, said. About two thirds of the peas were planted. With dry conditions the other third may go in.

Most cannery expect yields to be about the same as last year. Weeds are a problem in most areas and spraying is underway.

Spotlight on Dairying During June

June is dairy month, focusing the spotlight of national recognition on the dairy industry and its contributions to America's economy, health and welfare.

The story of milk and dairy foods is being brought to the public by all segments of the dairy industry in the 24th annual observance. Leaders in agriculture, business, education, government and scores of enterprises tied to the multi-billion dollar dairy industry are combining to herald the achievements and contributions of dairying.

Benefits Homemaker

Founded as a modern industry four generations ago, dairying has become the go-liath of agriculture in the United States and a major part of its retail food business. In its transition, dairying has become geared to modern science and technology and has adopted all of the mass - marketing tech-

Cooperative Fieldman Speaks at Dairy Month Kickoff Breakfast For Calumet County Officials

BY DON KAMPFER

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Chilton — Marketing, not production, is the dairy industry's major concern, Dan Jindra, fieldman for Lake-to-Lake Dairy cooperative, Kiel, told an audience of dairymen, extension workers and representatives of the Chamber of Commerce and municipal government at a June Dairy month kick-off breakfast at Teske's restaurant here.

The industry itself is at fault, he added. Each of its segments, generally located near major population centers, goes its own way on sales promotion. He stressed better cooperation in advertising and promotional work.

If everybody in the country could be persuaded to consume the volume of dairy products used per capita in Wisconsin, the industry would be called on to increase its production in contrast with the present bulging surplus, Jindra said. An increase could easily be accomplished, said Jindra, pointing to the steadily increasing production per animal.

Transportation also creates a problem, especially for Wisconsin milk. The state, he said, has an annual production of 18 billion pounds and must look outside its boundaries for 85 to 87 per cent of its market.

Were it not for transportation barriers, concentrated milk products could be moved from the state to both coasts and sold at prices competitive to locally produced products. Legislation to alleviate these

Calumet DHIA Elects New President

Chilton — Adelbert Kees, Harrison dairymen, is the new president of the Calumet county Dairy Herd Improvement association.

He was elected at the annual meeting of the association at Heller's hall, Brant. Kees replaces Chester Burg who, having served on the board for six years, was not eligible for reelection. Howard Sattler is new to the board. Other officers are Herbert Schoen, vice-president; Donald Morgan, secretary-treasurer, and Leonard Woelfel, director.

Gerald Loefer, fieldman for the association said there are 63 dairymen on standard testing, three on combination and 241 on owner-sampler. Membership has increased from 286 of last year to 307 this year. A total of 76,047 samples of milk were tested last year. Other DHIA personnel is composed of Eugene Redig, Roman Geiser and Constance Berrens.

Victor Geiser, who represents northeastern Wisconsin on the state association of DHIA, spoke. County Agent Orrin Meyer lead a panel discussion on hay conditioning.

More Than 85 Per Cent of Wisconsin counties have planned special banquets, parades, dances and other events in observance of June dairy month. Merrie Jule Barney, "Alice-in-Dairyland," and Harry Dix, chairman of the state June dairy month committee, place flags on a map to show the widespread activities. Dix, of Menomonie, is also a member of the state board of agriculture.

barriers is being worked on at present, Jindra said.

He lauded the high food value of dairy products, saying that they were the best dollar for dollar food buy on the grocer's shelf. This, however, has been partially brought about by the fact that dairy prices have not risen proportionately with other foods leaving the producer and processor with a small working margin. Because of this, farmers have stepped up production to increase profits.

Leads Nation

He encouraged all those associated with the industry to keep abreast of swiftly changing times and use the utmost caution to avoid an anti-biotic milk scare similar to a California incident which cut sharply into sales. Despite this scare, milk is one of the safest foods on the market since it comes under sanitary regulations from the farm to the consumer's table, Jindra said.

Wisconsin, he said, is by far the leading cheese producer in the nation with an output amounting to half of the national production and exceeding the state next in line, Missouri, by some 500 per cent. It is second in butter production to Minnesota but the state is gaining on the leader as more and more plants are being geared for butter production. The importance of dairying in Calumet county was emphasized by Orrin Meyer, county agent. He said that $8,508,000 of the county's $13,381,000 farm income came from the sale of dairy products. Another $1,328,000 goes to the county farmer from the sale of dairy cattle and calves.

Dairy Queen Contest

Chilton — Calumet county older rural youth will again select a Calumet county dairy queen. The crown presently is held by Dorothy Seybold of Hilbert. Any Calumet county girl, single and between the age of 17 to 25 may apply. She need not necessarily be from a farm. Entries should be made to the Calumet county extension office, court house, Chilton, by June 20. The dairy queen will be selected on personality and ability. Presentation of the queen will be at the Hilbert July 4 picnic.

Farmers Should Sugar Beet Cash

Good Yields Still Possible With

Application of Fertilizer on C

BY ORRIN W. MEYER
Calumet County Agent

Farmers looking around for cash crops to put in, might still consider sugar beets. With normal weather from here on out, nine or 10 ton yields are still possible if beets are planted immediately.

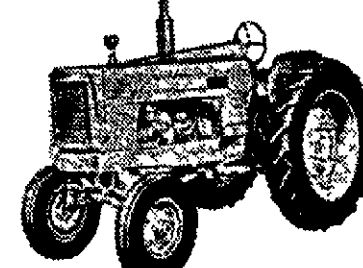

With liberal applications of fertilizer, good yields are still possible. It should be pointed out, however, that sugar beets cannot be planted on quack or weed infested fields. Those fields, if they are still wet and weed infested, may best be planted to buckwheat later on. Buckwheat is a late crop and has good smother quali-

Interesting History
Sugar beet growing in east- ern Wisconsin has an inter- esting history. Henry Hei- mann, octogenarian president of the Wisconsin Sugar Beet Growers, says sugar beet growing started in this area around 1904. Heilmann this spring planted his 53rd con- secutive crop. Attempts at es- tablishing sugar factories at Menomonie Falls, Racine, Madison and Chippewa did not prove too successful. Of recent years, two plants pro- duced beet sugar — one at Green Bay and another at Menominee, Mich. These plants have been combined now into one plant at Green Bay which processes all Wis- consin beets plus some from Illinois.

When sugar beet growing began to dwindle in 1951, re- maining growers got together and with county agents pull- ed together the remnants of the industry. Growers select- ed Heilmann as their presi- dent. He still is active in sug- ar beet promotion and legisla- tion.

Wisconsin has been allotted more than 9, 000 acres for 1960. It is d o u b t f u l whether this acreage will be planted. A rainy fall has left some growers dis- grunted but Heilmann bad weather can beset any crop. Sugar beet growing should concern e v e r y American. Approx- imately 25 per cent of the sugar consumed in the United States is raised in continen- tal U.S. Sugar prices have not generally followed the corn- mon law of supply and de- mand. Foreign sugar produc- ed with cheap labor in the is- lands and foreign countries always has depressed sugar prices in the U.S. As a result, the sugar industry has been subjected to governmental regulations.

The Wisconsin sugar beet growing area is divided into nine districts. Each district has a director. They are Hu- bert Braun, Racine; Ben Zin- ke, West Bend; Wayne Moore, Columbus; Clement Simon, Fond du Lac; Heilmann, Chil- ton; Russell Rank, Kewau- nee; Alphonse Schuler, Val- ders; Art Hendricks, Kau- kauna, and Clarence Schlag, Green Bay.

various sources by the foreign agricultural service indicated that the spring in several important Soviet farming areas has been cold, dry and windy. This, following an extremely dry autumn, has caused a deficiency of sub-soil moisture as well as damage to winter grain crops.

Dust Storms
Russian production last year, especially of grains, was reduced by a summer and fall drought. As a consequence, Soviet farm production fell considerably short of the goal set by Premier Nikita Khrushchev, who has predicted his country's farm production, on a per capita basis, will match this country's by 1965.

"Extensive dust storms over the entire southern Ukraine area retarded field work late in April," the service said. "Dust storms also were prevalent north of Krasnodar, indicating the drought conditions were developing in the north Caucasus."

Great Destruction
"In the Krasnodar area, feed shortages caused by the 1959 drought, have resulted in distress livestock slaughtering. And although the Volga region has not been hit as hard as the Ukraine and the north Caucasus, soil moisture reserves are reported down."

The service said this year's Soviet grain production plan is designed to provide for an expanding population, establish a food reserve and meet the exports outlined for the second year of Khrushchev's 7-year plan.

Some idea of the magnitude and destructive force of the dust storms in the Krasnodar area were supplied by a story in the Russian newspaper Ovestia. It told how one such storm literally buried a large hog farm at Iskra.

The story said buildings were buried to their roofs. In the inner yard, the outlet for the farm's water supply was covered. Hogs were buried inside the buildings, and sand on the roofs threatened their collapse.

Bean Disease Shows Again

Blights Last Hit In 1956, Growers Must be Careful

A canning bean disease which almost had disappeared from the state flared up again a few years ago, reminding growers that they can't drop their guard.

The disease was bacterial blight—sometimes called halo blight in canning beans. In 1956 an epidemic in the north wiped out some 200 acres of beans. This outbreak was traced to a single lot of seed produced in a western area where blight is presumed not to occur. Because this is a seed-borne bacterium, seed production has centered in southern Idaho where weather conditions don't allow blight to occur.

No Outbreak
A serious outbreak has not been repeated since 1956, but it serves to illustrate that enough infection can occur unobserved in seed growing areas to start substantial epidemics in areas where climate is right for the development of the disease.

University of Wisconsin plant scientist J. C. Walker has used blight-infected seed to study how this blight spreads under Wisconsin conditions.

In an average Wisconsin summer, he found, you need only a few plants per acre to establish an epidemic of the disease. The germs spread rapidly and for a considerable distance. Winds were an important factor in moving the bacteria along. There was very little spread due to use of cultivation equipment. Very little rain was required for rapid spread of the disease.

Graphic Experiment

Walker's most graphic experiment consisted of two 10-foot sections of row, planted to infected seed in the middle of a 15-row patch 130 feet long which was otherwise planted to disease-free seed. Three weeks after planting, some plants in the disease-free rows had become infected.

Counts made in the fifth week after planting showed a slightly wider infection—mostly in a few sections of row north and east of where the infected seed was planted. This indicates that winds from the south and west were spreading the bacteria.

By the sixth week after planting, the epidemic was well underway. The germs had spread at least 65 feet from the infected strips—almost exclusively in a north and east direction.

Alaskan Plants May Grow Here

Cooperative Study Set Up With 49th State and Wisconsin Men

The 49th state—thought of as a land of ice and snow and, by many, a barren wasteland—actually has considerable agricultural promise. Research projects set up cooperatively by the Alaska and Wisconsin agricultural experiment stations may help guide agricultural development there.

This research also is seeking Alaskan plants growing under the rigorous northern conditions with qualities that could upgrade commercial varieties in other parts of the nation.

Produce Little

Currently there are only about 350 full-time commercial farmers in Alaska and many part-timers and subsistence farmers. Frost cover, frozen land, potholes caused by melted underground ice, short seasons and soil deficiencies are blocks to rapid farm development in various areas of this new frontier. Some crops are not adapted to growing in Alaska.

Alaska farmers produce very little of the total food needed by the state's 215,000 people, and only about one-fifth the amount of Alaskan-adapted food crops that could be produced there. There is much progress to be made in food production in Alaska.

Alaskan farm economists figure that if agriculture had to depend entirely on local food-consuming markets, only about 500-700 farmers could make a good living on commercial farms unless population expands remarkably.

Thus, "outside" markets for Alaskan farm products are someday going to be necessary if agriculture is to expand into the large area of cropland and grassland considered suitable for farming there. Current acreage of cleared land in all kinds of farms is about 15,000 to 19,000 acres. Estimates of potential cultivated land in the new state range from 1,000,000 acres to 12 million acres.

The Wisconsin-Alaska project is the first step in exploring possibilities of a seed production industry in Alaska—an industry whose products would largely be exported.

Production Potential

Agronomists and plant disease specialists at both experiment stations are surveying the state to find Alaskan legumes and grasses with potential value for agriculture. They collect live specimens or seed of these plants, then test them for desirable qualities under both Alaskan and Wisconsin growing conditions.

Research goals are to provide disease-resistant, hardy, and productive plant materials for breeding programs of Alaska, Wisconsin and other areas.

Evaluation of this material

Hog Pasture Can Save $70

A good hog pasture can provide up to $70 an acre in feed for your gilts and brood sows. Good pasture isn't often located in the woods, where mud holes and junk are more apt to be found than alfalfa and brome.

Tests conducted by the University of Wisconsin have proved that one acre of good alfalfa or rape pasture has saved as much feed as is found in 1,800 pounds of corn and 500 pounds of tankage. This hog pasture provides good, top quality succulent feed, high in protein and rich in minerals, plus plenty of sunlight and exercise which is vital to the herd's health.

Alfalfa and brome or ladino makes an excellent hog pasture. For an emergency pasture one can use rape. The dwarf Essex rape, seeded at five to seven pounds per acre can be seeded until July 1 and will provide succulent pasture in a month to a month and a half after seeding. Care should be taken with white pigs on a rape pasture, they have a tendency to sunburn quite readily.

Pasture for pigs is a vital part of good swine management program, it helps prevent parasite and disease infestation and the pigs harvest their own so we save labor and feed and end up with better quality animals as a result. The fencing problem is a tough one, but an electric wire inside the woven wire fence will help remind the pigs just where the pasture boundaries are.

for possible new crops and improved varieties of forage, lawn, turf and green manure crops in Alaska, Wisconsin and other areas.

Evaluation of seed production potentials, with the possibility of providing foundation materials for development of a new industry in Alaska—production of grass seed for export.

Basic research on plant taxonomy, physiology, and morphology as influenced by Alaskan conditions.

Most of the Alaskan plants have little to offer directly in the form of cultivated crops, the research men think. It isn't likely that an Alaskan legume, for instance, would compete well with Vernal alfalfa under Wisconsin conditions. But vetches, clovers and many grasses introduced as hay about 1900 are thriving in isolated locations in Alaska.

Wild Plants Better

But some Alaskan wild plants might be better than standard commercial varieties on Alaskan farms. It looks as if some wild Canadian bluegrass selections do better than commercial bluegrass in Alaska. Hybrid selections from smooth brome and Alaska wild brome are better than commercial varieties.

There may be a large untapped source of breeding materials in the Alaskan plants. Some of them may carry genes for disease resistance, extreme hardiness, and longer periods of forage production. These characteristics could be bred into commercial varieties used here in the Midwest.

So far—and the work is very preliminary—some Canadian bluegrass selections from Alaska seem to have resistance to rust and mildew when grown in Wisconsin.

Only time and much more research will tell what useful qualities the Alaskan plants possess for the plant breeders in the rest of the nation. Procedures used in seeking out these qualities will also guide Alaskan farmers in variety selection, and indicate whether an Alaskan export seed industry would be feasible and worthwhile.

U.S., Russia to Continue Farm Exchange Plan

Negotiations Now In Progress for Summer Excursion

Washington—The United States and the Soviet Union are expected to continue the exchange of technical agricultural groups despite the recent blowup of the summit conference in Paris.

Working through the state department, the agriculture department is now negotiating with the Russians on exchange of several groups this summer. The exchange program was started in 1958 under an agreement designed to enable each country to get better acquainted with the other's agriculture.

Under this agreement, nine exchanges already have been made.

The department hopes to send teams to Russia interested in such matters as soil salinity, agricultural information, food processing and the handling and storage of grains.

Officials said that the negotiations for additional exchange groups are being carried on with Soviet embassy officials in what was described as a friendly air unaffected by recent political events. They conceded, however, that the Russians have made no definite commitments.

Members of the American teams have been authorities in various fields of agriculture, including department experts, members of staffs of state agricultural college and industry men.

Information gathered so far on Russian agriculture has influenced the department to say that it will take Soviet agriculture many years to reach the productive level of U.S. agriculture.

Civic Club Plans Greenville Fete

Greenville—The Civic club will have its third annual homecoming June 26 in the shopping area here, one half mile north of Greenville corners.

Arnold Schroeder is chairman. A cafeteria ham dinner will be at Tinnie's hall with serving starting at 11 a. m. Refreshments, games and prizes will be in Rudloff's garage and lot back of Tinnie's hall. There also will be farm, industrial exhibits and pony rides. A dance will be held in the evening.

There will be a special meeting Monday evening at the Savings Center hall to make final plans.

Rotate Pastures

Rotation-grazed pastures may yield three times as much grazing per acre as continuously grazed pastures, says Purdue University.

Dairy month has become one of the largest annual food sales events in the world. It is widely promoted by dairies, food stores, restaurants and other outlets, but also has prompted enthusiastic support from banks, power companies, machinery suppliers and others.

It was the fourteenth national convention for Seybold, who has been attending annually since first elected in Springfield, Mass. in 1947. He retired from dairying last month when his well known Meadow Brook herd, built up over a period of 43 years, was offered in a dispersal sale May 3.

Several Types of Blue Tag Berries Out for Nurseries

"Blue tag" strawberry plants are available to Wisconsin nurserymen this year in the varieties Dunlap, Catskill, Sparkle, Robinson and a limited number of others.

The blue tag strawberries are virtually virus free and nematode free. The plants are grown under rigid supervision through the Wisconsin plant improvement program.

Blue tag plants are sold only to nurserymen. Growers for commercial strawberry sale should look for green tag plants. These are grown by the nurserymen from the blue tag plants under regulations of the program.

The blue tag plants are available from only two growers of foundation stock—Gilbert Brooks, route 2, Plainfield and Kemnetz Nursery, Cumberland.

The plantings of the blue tag plant growers are extremely isolated and are rigidly inspected by the division of plant industry, The state department of agriculture and department of horticulture, University of Wisconsin.

Castro Says Plane Spied On Soviet Ship

Charges Espionage
10 Miles Off Coast
Of Cuban Province

BY ROBERT BERRELLEZ

Havana — Prime Minister Fidel Castro asserted last night that a U. S. military plane took "movie films and photographs" of a Soviet ship off Cuba's coast and denounced it as "an act of espionage."

In his third blast against the United States in 36 hours, Castro rejected two U. S. hit protests received by his government. He countered with the "pirate plane" disclosure and an attack on foreign oil companies in Cuba.

The Cuban leader showed a TV audience pictures of a twin-engine plane that appeared to be a U. S. Navy patrol craft flying near a ship, he identified as Russian. He listed the aircraft's registry number as "LF128-390."

Reds Took Pictures
The Soviet ship was 10 miles off the north coast of Matanzas province, adjoining Havana province, Castro said. The plane hovered over the vessel so long, he added, that the Soviet crew had time to row out and take the pictures.

(There was no immediate reaction in Washington to Castro's charge. The Russians have made similar complaints that U. S. planes have scouted other Soviet ships. The defense department has declined comment on the Russian reports.)

Castro rejected as violent and virulent two U. S. protests and declared they "reveal the spirit of aggression" by the United States against Cuba.

Washington said in a sharp note yesterday that Cuba was making false and offensive charges against the United States. An earlier note accused the Castro government of an "intense official campaign of slander" against the U. S. government.

Won't Reply to U.S.
Castro declared his government would never reply to Washington's demand for an explanation of the shooting at a U. S. submarine in Cuban waters last month. He referred to the incident of the submarine sea poacher, fired on by a Cuban frigate reportedly after the sub failed to identify herself.

Switching to the petroleum issue, Castro charged that refusal of foreign oil firms to refine Soviet crude oil was an "act of treachery" oriented by the U. S. state department.

Elderly Recluse Leaves Estate of $750,000

Milwaukee — An 88-year-old recluse who lived in a house on Milwaukee's south side left an estate of $750,000 — most of it found hidden in a garbage can.

The amount of the estate of Albert Friedrich was disclosed in county court.

The estate consisted of currency and negotiable stocks and bonds. Most was found in the garbage can.

Friedrich, a bachelor who died April 18, 1959, left most of the estate to seven first cousins.

Baseball School Scheduled for Goodland Field

Teenage baseball players in this area of Wisconsin will be offered a training opportunity again this year at a special baseball school.

The Post-Crescent is co-sponsoring the school with the Baltimore Orioles and the Fox Cities Foxes, both teams in the first divisions of their respective leagues. The school will be held at Goodland field next Friday and Saturday. Starting time both days will be 10:00 a. m.

Interested players between 17 and 21 years can find more information in today's sports section and in next week's Post-Crescent issues.

PLYWOOD OSHKOSH

WISCONSIN'S LARGEST PLYWOOD WAREHOUSE

Truly a house of bargains. Here you will find the very best of plywood and the opportunity to take advantage of the many bargains always available in factory imperfections.

When a large factory produces any type of materials, there is always a small percentage of fall-downs or imperfections. Most of these defects can be repaired, but it is not economical or justifiable to raise prices of all materials in order to pay for the repairing of the imperfections.

Therefore, we are able to pass on a savings to the customer by reducing the price of the imperfect panel in order to move the stock quickly. These panels are still over 90% usable. If you are planning to remodel or build, feel free to call on us.
